FIRST EDITION.

MIDNIGHT.

THE CAPITAL.

[By Telegraph to the Pittsburgh Gazette.]

WASHINGTON, October 11, 1869.

YERGER AND BROWN CASES.

The Yerger case will be heard on Friday as to the question of jurisdiction. The Brown case, from Texas, is to abide the decision in the Yerger case. The Court adjourned upon the announcement of the death of ex-President Pierce.

THE LATE FRANKLIN PIERCE.

The Court of Claims met this morning, but no business was transacted, the Court having adjourned until to morrow in respect to the memory of Ex President Pierce. All the Government buildings were closed to-day, and draped in mourning, and all flags on public and private buildings, are at half mast, as a tribute of respect to the memory of Franklin Pierce.

The President will attend the Frederick county, Maryland, Agricultural Fair next Thursday.

CANADA.

What Can the Matter Be? Volunteers Armed and Equipped at Midnight!—Has a Hornet's Nest been Stirred Up?—Fifteen Men Drowned.

[By Telegraph to the Pittsburgh Gazette.]

MONTREAL, October 11.—There is considerable excitement here owing to the sudden order last night to turn out all the volunteers for service at short notice. Many of them were dragged from their beds to muster at the armories, where every man received his arms and accoutrements with orders to parade to day.

It is not supposed that Fenian troubles are apprehended; but rather that complications will arise from the Hornet affair.

Sir Francis Hincks has been sworn in as Finance Minister.

The revenue of the Dominion for the month of September was $1,465,842, and expenditures $589,206.

Yesterday morning a scow, crossing St. Maurice river, from Point Chatteaux to Point Dore, upset, precipitating twenty men, and the same number of horses, into the water. Fifteen men, and all the horses, were drowned.

LATER.

TORONTO, October 11.—The volunteers throughout the country have received orders to hold themselves in readiness for immediate service. It is said the Government has received information that the Fenians are abont to attempt another raid.

PHILADELPHIA.

The Original, Simon-pure Democratic Ticket to be Voted—An Election Precinct Flooded—Going to the Polls in Boats—Ballots Received at the Second-story Window.

[By Telegraph to the Pittsburgh Gazette.]

PHILADELPHIA, October 11.—It is now probable the city ticket originally nominated by Democrats will be run. Handbills appeared to day urging the Democrats in strong language to vote the original ticket, and stating that printed ballots would be furnished at the polls to-morrow. In some places these posters were torn down, causing fights.

In consequence of the breaks in the river, the banks all along the first precinct of the First ward has been covered with water for a week past, and to morrow the voters will have to go to the polls in boats. The house in which the election poll will be held has several feet of water on the first floor, and the votes will be taken in at the second story window.

CINCINNATI.

Anti-Nuisance Meeting—Sarcastic Language—Horse-whipped for it.

[By Telegraph to the Pittsburgh Gazette.]

CINCINNATI, October 11.—Josiah L. Keck horse-whipped Thomas Hyeatman this morning for the following language used by the latter at a meeting of citizens, in Delhi township, on Friday, to abate the Fertilizer Company nuisance, viz: "Ben Eggleston was our representative in Congress from the first district, and Si. Keck was President of the city council. We have representatives in the penitentiary,—why not call them honorable? Have they done any worse than these men? They are reducing the price of property in this community, and their minions are ready to buy it up at a low rate, and when they have got a great part of it, you will find that the factory will be removed.

Weather cool, cloudy, and "spitting" rain, with a prospect of a full vote to-morrow.

Gov. Hayes is in the city.

LOUISVILLE.

Assembling of the Commercial Convention—21 States Represented.

[By Telegraph to the Pittsburgh Gazette.]

LOUISVILLE, October 11.—At seven o'clock this evening there were registered over 200 delegates. Twenty one States are represented, namely: Kentucky, Kansas, Georgia, Indiana, Iowa, Alabama, Arkansas, Delaware, Florida, Louisiana, Mississippi, Maryland, New York, Ohio, Pennsylvania, Rhode Island, North Carolina, Tennessee, Vermont, Texas and Virginia. Every train and steamer to-night will bring large additions.

All the hotels are engaged, and many of the delegates will have to be quartered in the residences of private citizens, which have been thrown open for that purpose.

Funeral of Ex-President Pierce.

(By Telegraph to the Pittsburgh Gazette.)

CONCORD, N. H., October 11.—The remains of Ex-President Pierce were removed at eleven o'clock this forenoon to the State House, where a large number of people took a last view of the departed, including the children of the public schools. All places of business were closed from twelve till two o'clock. The remains were taken to St. Paul's church, at one o'clock, where the rites of the Episcopal church were performed.

NEW YORK CITY.

[By Telegraph to the Pittsburgh Gazette.]

NEW YORK, October 11, 1869.

The Erie and Susquehanna Railroad fight has come to an amicable end, the former road leasing the Susquehanna property for a period of ninety-nine years, on terms acceptable to the stockholders.

Three persons named Julia Zahn, of Cincinnati, Jacob Lampert and Jacob Ult, of New York, have been arrested for the recent robbery of the store of Steinberg and Mayer, of Cincinnati, of a large quantity of human hair. The property was recovered.

It is said that Marshal Barlow has sent two of his deputies to Wilmington to examine the Hornet and ascertain from personal observation her real character, and demand her further detention.

Wm. D. Mitchell, a well known liquor merchant, hung himself last Saturday night, in his bedroom.

It is reported that another expedition slipped quietly away last night to the aid of the Cubans.

Gen. Butler, while in this city on Saturday, defended both President Grant and Secretary Boutwell from all charges of complicity with the late gold panic. He thinks Congress cannot pass any direct law that would prevent gambling in gold. The only way to effect this would be to make greenbacks the standard of of values, and gold an article of merchandise, which could be done if the Government would accept its own paper in partial payment of Custom House revenues.

At an annual meeting of the Board of Missions, of the Protestant Episcopal Church, to-day, the Secretary's report was read. The General Field and Home Mission remains the same as one year ago. Two hundred and eleven clergymen are enrolled as Home Missionaries, of whom one hundred and seventy-eight are now in the field. The total receipts for domestic missions for 1869 were $127,710. The report of the foreign committee is ready, showing the mission force to be thirty seven.

In the Court of Oyer and Terminer to-day, Judge Ingraham, in his charge to the Grand Jury, alluded to the law making it a criminal offence for two or more persons to conspire together to commit any act injurious to trade or commerce, and called their attention to the recent gold combination, and said it may well be the duty of the Grand Inquest, as it is doubtless within their province, to inquire whether such occurrences have been brought about by any unlawful combination, and if so, to present the guilty parties for trial.

The Cooper Institute was crowded to-night by friends of Cuba to celebrate the first anniversary of Cuban independence. Senor Lemus, Cuban Minister to Washington, presided. Congratulatory telegrams were received from prominent persons in various parts of the country, and speeches were made by members of the Junta and others. The utmost enthusiasm prevailed.

ST. LOUIS.

Important Railroad Movement—Questions for Discussion by the National Board of Trade.

[By Telegraph to the Pittsburgh Gazette.]

ST. LOUIS, October 11.—At a meeting of the Board of Trade, to-night, Gen. G. W. Blair, of Kansas, presented the project of building a railroad from Lebanon, Laclede county, Missouri, the present terminus of the South-western Pacific R. R., to Fort Scott, Kansas, which will open a route from St. Louis to Southeast Kansas and the great stock raising country west and south, 112 miles shorter than by any present or projected route. The project met with much favor, and the board adopted resolutions asking the attention of merchants and capitalists to it.

The President offered several questions to be filed for discussion by the National Board of Trade at its next meeting, in substance as follows: Asking Congress to appropriate sufficient money to remove the obstructions to navagation in the Mississippi river, and its tributaries; also, to furnish a dredge to work in connection with the essayans now operating on the bars at the mouth of the Mississippi, so that a channel, the depth of twenty feet, may be maintained; the reduction of the duty on foreign salt to fifteen per cent. advalorem, the rate established bef.re the war; the passage of a law by Congress to compel the railroads of the country to transport local passengers and freight at the same pro rata rate per mile as they do through passengers and freight; also the passage of a general law by Congress regulating the width of draws and spans of bridges crossing the Mississippi, Ohio and other rivers.

The Board also adopted a resolution expressing regret at the death of Franklin Pierce and complimenting the Administration.

The Case of the Cuba—Line of the Defence—Another Postponement.

[By Telegraph to the Pittsburgh Gazette.]

WILMINGTON, N. C., Oct. 11.—The case of the Cuba was opened this morning by Mr. G. P. Lowry, of New York, who appeared, with Col. George Davis and Judge G. P. Mears, for the Republic of Cuba, by reading the commission of Commodore Higgins as an officer of the Cuban navy, and also a formal protest by him against the exercise of jurisdiction by the civil courts over his ship, she being a public ship of war, of a recognized nation. He declares it untrue that she has offended against the neutrality laws of the United States. In order to allow the Government time to produce witnesses, United States Commodore Rutherford continued the case until Saturday next.

Important Order by Gen. Canby.

[By Telegraph to the Pittsburgh Gazette.]

RICHMOND, October 11.—Gen. Canby issued an order to-day postponing, until after the admission of the State, the appointment of the State proxies in railroads. This order will likely leave all the railroads organizations as they stand at present, until the permanent State Government goes into effect.

—An engagement occurred last week between a small detachment of troops and Cubans, near Puerto Principe. The insurgents lost twenty-three killed. Reports have been circulated of the intended evacuation of Puerto De Pacere, but they prove untrue.

SECOND EDITION.

FOUR O'CLOCK, A. M.

Insurgent Leaders Shot—Conflicting Rumors—Government Alarmed for the Safety of Madrid—French Miners yet Discontented—Release of Fenian Prisoners Demanded.

[By Telegraph to the Pittsburgh Gazette.]

SPAIN.

MADRID, October 11.—Official reports state that 1800 insurgents of Reus surrendered to General Baldrick.

Deputies Monguerie and Palacios have given in their submission to the Government.

Fighting continues at Laragossa, and the authorities demand reinforcements.

Disturbances broke out in Valencia on Friday, but in Aragon and Catatonia the insurruction has lost its importance.

Parties just arrived here report that the republic has been proclaimed at La Caroline and Gaudesa.

It is feared the insurgents will make a movement on Madrid, and great precautions are taken to resist them.

MADRID, October 11.—Evening.—Caberillo and Carbayal, two insurgent leaders, were captured and taken to the town of Ibi, where they were shot. Arrogan is now reported quiet. Order has been restored in Saragossa. Many of the insurgents were killed, wounded and taken prisoners.

FRANCE.

PARIS, October 11.—Dispatches from Aubin in the department of Averyon, have been received. Up to a late hour last evening no new outbreaks had occurred among the miners, but the strike still continues. Yesterday a large public meeting in the Arrondisment of Bellville was dispersed by force. Resistance was offered and several of the rioters were wounded. There was a large meeting of the cotton manufacturers of the city of Mulhausen on Saturday to consider the question of the American cotton supply, and other matters incidental to the trade. They denounce the commercial treaty recently concluded, and urged the substitution of the customs tariff

PARIS, October 11 —The Emperor will go to Compiegne to-morrow, and will not return until the 24th inst.

PARIS, October 11.—Evening.—Advices from Republican sources represent that the insurrection is gaining ground. It is asserted that the Government already fears a general attack on Madrid.

GREAT BRITAIN.

DUBLIN, October 11.—At a late amnesty meeting in this city an address was adopted declaring a refusal to release the Fenian prisoners will be regarded as an indication that the British Government is determined to rule by terror—not conciliation.

GERMANY.

CARLSRHE, October 11.—Information has been received here that a treaty has been concluded between Wurtemberg and the North German Confederation, which allows subjects of either country to serve in the army of the other.

Savannah Election—Negroes Vote with the Democracy.

SAVANNAH, October 11.—Col. John Screvein, the Democratic candidate for Mayor, and an entire Democratic Board of Aldermen, were elected to day by about three thousand majority. The official vote will not be known until to-morrow. The negroes generally voted with the Democrats.

—A letter received at Washington City, states that on the 17th of September, the island of St. Thomas was visited by an earthquake and shook the City of St. Thomas to its foundations. The shocks were so severe as to materially injure many of the buildings, shattering the walls of the Spanish and Union hotels and other large structures, which caused a general panic among the inhabitant and the entire suspension of business. The day had been exceedingly hot, without the slightest breeze, the thermometer indicating ninety-two, and the barometer thirty, indicating fair weather. In the intervals between the first shock at 2 50 P. M., and 11 P. M., nine distinct shocks occurred, producing wide spread terror and dismay. The writer concludes by saying: I have experienced many severe shocks, but nothing to compare with those of yesterday. There has been nothing like it since the great earthquake of 1867.

—The smoking car on the four o'clock train from New York, on the Hudson River Railroad, was thrown from the track by a stone while passing Dobbs' Ferry yesterday afternoon. The car was dragged a long distance, creating quite a panic among the passengers, but as it did not upset no one was hurt.

BRIEF TELEGRAMS.

—Through trains are now running regularly on the Erie railroad.

—All the distilleries in the second Ohio district are to be re-surveyed.

—The bullion shipments from Virgina City for the past week were nearly two hundred and thirty thousand dollars.

—Cyrus A. Eastman, appointed Treasurer of the San Francisco Mint some time since, has accepted the position.

—A heavy rain storm prevailed at New York on Sunday, and extended throughout New England.

—The condition of Admiral Farragut was improving yesterday, and he is now considered to be entirely out of danger.

—The Memphis Board of Aldermen yesterday rescinded its action in reference to the sale of the Little Rock Rail road stock.

—The receipts of the Fair of the charitable Mechanics' Association, at Boston, last week, were much larger than on any previous occasion.

—The Catholics have purchased the Turner House property, at Dayton, Ohio, and will erect upon it a splendid cathedral, in which event it will have the resident Bishop.

—At the Industrial Exhibition at Buffalo, there is the largest and longest wrought-iron beam ever rolled at a single heat in this country. It is seventy feet long, twelve feet high and weighs three hundred tons.

—An unsuccessful effort was made yesterday, in Philadelphia, under a writ of habeas corpus, to obtain a reduction of the bail in the case of Donohue, Marra and Eagan, charged with the attempted assassination of Revenue Officer Brooks.

—The freshet so filled the locks of the Schuylkill Navigation Company at Fairmont as to render them impassable. The consequence was a large number of boats collected there Sunday afternoon. Two prize fights took place on these boats, the first by two negroes for twenty-five dollars a side, and the second between two boatmen, to decide the merits of the rival fire companies. The police arrested the parties implicated.

—Over one million gallons of whisky have been seized at San Francisco, the officers there claiming that it is not pure bourbon production of Kentucky, as represented, but a fraud, and the whisky liable to forfeiture. If this opinion is sustained, it is claimed that no whisky in any warehouse in the country is exempt from seizure, and that therefore not a little excitement may be produced among the revenue officers and whisky men in the principal markets like Philadelphia, New York, Cincinnati and Boston.

A SAN FRANCISCO editor who has been to a Chinese theatre there, thus speaks of the quality of the music furnished: "Imagine yourself in a boiler manufactory where four hundred men are putting in rivets, a mammoth tin shop next door on one side and a forty stamp quartz mill upon the other, with a drunken charivari party with six hundred instruments in front, four thousand enraged cats on the roof, and a faint idea will be conveyed of the performance of a first class Chinese band of music."

THE Mont Cenis Railway is making good progress. The mountain has been penetrated by the tunnel to the distance of six and a quarter miles. The remaining distance to be tunneled is about one mile. The progress has always been greater on the southern side, where the work was begun and improved machinery first employed. Had an equal advance been made at the other end, the tunnel would have been ready by the end of this year.

A correspondent of the Scientific American says: "The grindstone is a self-sharpening tool, and after having been turned some time in one direction (if a hard stone) the motion should be reversed. Sand, of the right grit, applied occasionally to a hard stone will render it quite effectual."

STATE ITEMS.

WILKESBARRE has a school in which woman's work and housekeeping are taught. A similar institution would pay in other places besides Wilkesbarre.

THE Department of Soldiers' Orphans' Schools favorably considered one hunpred and sixty applications for admission into the orphan schools in this State, during September.

THE Reading manufacturing establishments are at a stand still and house-keepers a good deal inconvenienced by the limited supply of water, caused by the damage resulting from the recent freshet.

ON Thursday, of last week, the railroad shops at Patterson were closed in obedience to an order issued several weeks ago. A number of the employes have been given employment at Altoona, and others at the shops at Renova, on the Philadelphia and Erie road.

AN attempt was made to steal the church plate at the Catholic church in Mauch Chunk last week. Through the courageous action of the priest, who discovered the intruder in the very act, the thief was arrested and handed over to the authorities, and is now in jail.

AT the recent meeting of the Lutheran Synod of Pennsylvania, held at Lebanon, Rev. Dr. Valentine, President of Pennsylvania College, at his own request, was honorably dismissed to the Maryland Synod, with expressions of regret on the part of the Synod to have to consent to the separation.

THE Philadelphia Post says "outrages by Mayor Fox's men are so numerous that it is next to impossible to 'gather them in.' We don't print half we hear of, nor do we learn of half that occur. Democratic aldermen invariably hush up cases where policemen are the defendants, and many a guilty blue coat escapes a thorough ventilation."

AT Sharon, Mercer county, last week, a young man named Carmody, was stabbed in the abdomen by one McKee, receiving a wound four inches long and deep enough to scrape the intestines. McKee was arrested. He has already served one term in the Sing Sing Penitentiary, one term at the Dry Tortugas, and one term in the Allegheny Penitentiary.

JOHN SHEFFIELD, an athlete, was very seriously injured at the Conneautville Fair. He was performing his feats upon the track, and had run his mile, and was engaged in walking his half mile backwards, when he came in collision with a horse and carriage on the track, the driver not observing him in time to turn out or warn him of his danger. The thill struck Mr. Sheffield on the lower part of the spine, knocked him violently forward on his face, in which position both wheels of the buggy passed over his body lengthwise

THE Presbytery of Carlisle, which met last week in Waynesboro', Franklin county, after a full and free discussion, adopted the basis of Union sent down by the General Assembly, by a vote of 43 to 6. The six negative votes were given by ministers, the whole of the ruling elders present, twenty-one in number, having voted in the affirmative. A resolution was afterwards moved by one of the minority, and unanimously adopted, declaring that if the re-union was consummated, Presbytery would do its utmost to make it a harmonious and successful one.

FOREIGN NEWS AND RUMORS.

WHEN Bishop Dupanloup, of Orleans, the great leader of the Gallican Church party, read Father Hyacinthe's letter, he exclaimed, "ah, eal c'est que je l'ai attendu longtemps." (Oh, yes, that is what I have looked for a long time.)

THE most remarkable railroad in Germany and Europe is the new Black Forest Road, which will be completed within four years. Between Hornberg and St. George, situated 2,870 feet above the level of the sea, and but four miles from Hornberg, the railroad ascends nearly 2,000 feet, and passes through 27,000 feet of tunnels. Eleven thousand feet of the latter have already been completed during the last two years. The truly Cyclopean work on the road is progressing rapidly, and attracting thousands of visitors, who flock together from all parts of Southern Germany and Switzerland.

The introduction of rifled artillery has given rise to a new and rather dangerous kind of industrie. When experiments are made at Tegal, Prussia, if the shell does not burst immediately, the so-called bail thieves rush out of their cover in the neighborhood, seize the shell, knock off the leaden coating with a few sharp blows with a chisel, and make off with their booty. Sentries are posted near the line of flight, but they often fail in catching the depredators, who, regardless of danger, place themselves just where the shell is expected to fall. If the shell is a large one, the value of the lead is very considerable. If it is a small one, the thieves carry it off bodily, and perform their dangerous manipulations at their leisure. A few months ago the police gave notice that three such loaded shells which had not burst had been stolen, and warned the public against having anything to do with them.

AMONG the vessels lost in the memorable cyclone that swept over the Bay of Bengal in 1867, says the Liverpool Courier, were the steamer Thunderer and the ship Morayshire. Search was professed to be made for these and other missing vessels among the Sunderbunds, but no traces of them were discovered, and it was taken for granted that both of them had gone down at sea. The other day a party of fishermen, driven for shelter into an out-of-the-way creek, some miles inland, stumbled upon the hull of a ship, which proved to be the Morayshire, and further on found found a steamer, with masts and funnels still standing which answered to the description of the Thunderer. The steamer had £165,000 on board, which is doubtless in her bullion hold. As to the fate of her crew, painful speculations are, of course, called up, as the place is infested with tigers.

Men Who Win Women.

God has so made the sexes that women, like children, cling to men; lean upon them as though they were superior in mind and body. They make them the suns of systems, and their children revolve around them. Men are gods, if they but knew it, and women burning incense at these shrines. Women, therefore, who have good minds and pure hearts, want men to lean upon. Think of their reverencing a drunkard, a liar, a fool, or a liberatine. If a man would have a woman to do him homage, he must be manly in every sense, a true gentleman, not after the Chesterfield school, but polite because his heart is full of kindness to all; one who treats her with respect, even deference, because she is a woman; who never condescends to say silly things to her; who brings her up to his level, if his mind is above hers; who is never over-anxious to do right; who has no time to be frivolous with her. Always dignified in speech and act; who never spends too much upon her; never yields to temptation, even if she puts it in his way; ambition to make his make his mark in the word whether she encourages him or not; who is never familiar wit her to the extent of being an adopted brother or cousin; who is not over careful about dress, always pleasant and considerate, but always keeping his place of the man, the head, and never losing it, such deportment, with noble principles, good mind, energy and industry will win any woman in the world who is worth winning.

How Some of Our Merchants Have Risen.

A few years ago a large drug firm in this city advertised for a boy. Next day the store was thronged with applicants, among them a queer-looking little fellow, accompanied by a woman, who proved to be his aunt, in lieu of faithless parents, by whom he had been abandoned. Looking at this little waif, the merchant in the store promptly said: "Can't take him; places all full; besides, he is too small." "I know he is small," said the woman, "but he is willing and faithful." There was a twinkle in the boy's eyes which made the merchant think again. A partner in the firm volunteered to remark that he "did not see what they wanted of such a boy—he wasn't bigger than a pint of cider." But after consultation the boy was set to work. A few days later a call was made on the boys in the store for some one to stay all night. The prompt response of the little fellow contrasted well with the reluctance of others In the middle of the night the merchant looked in too see if all was right in the store, and presently discovered his youthful protege busy scissoring labels. "What are you doing?" said he; "I did not tell you to work nights." "I know you did not tell me so, but I thought I might as be doing something. In the morning the cashier got orders to "double that boy's wages, for he is willing." To day that boy is getting a salary of $2,500, and next January will become a member of the firm.—New York Republic.

THE LITTLE SISTERS OF THE POOR.—About the year 1840, there was started in a remote corner of Brittany, a charitable organization known as "The Little Sisters of the Poor." Its sole capital was the savings of an old servant woman, amounting to a few hundred francs; but Providence blessed the self-sacrifice of the poor woman who founded it. It has spread throughout France and has been the means of relieving a vast amount of human misery. Latterly it has been extending itself to foreign countries, and about a month since some of the Sisters came to Philadelphia, where they opened an asylum for the indigent aged of all creeds. Relying wholly upon the benevolence of the community, they have nothing but what may be contributed by the spontaneous offerings of those who may be moved by the simple but sublime self-devotion of the Sisters to their good work. Already they have received thirty-six poor creatures in their asylum, some of whom have beds, while others sleep on straw. Much that is rejected by the rich they turn to account for the poor, and the Sisters make daily rounds to collect the broken victuals on which they subsist themselves and their dependents. Few charities are more deserving than this, for in few is there a more earnest and intelligent effort to turn to account the material that would otherwise be wasted; and in a community like this there should be no lack of persons to contribute old garments, bedding, furniture and food with which to succor the helpless and miserable.

THE emancipation of women seems to be rapidly advancing in Germany, as well as in England, and we have now a lady doctor in Berlin. Mrs. Hirschfeldt, who was born in Holstein, and left Germany in 1867 to study in America, has lately returned with a diploma from the Dental College in Philadelphia, and obtained permission to practice as a dentist in the capital.

To make paper stick to whitewashed walls, make a size of common glue and water, of the consistency of linseed oil, and apply with whitewash or other brush to the walls, taking care to go over every part, and especially top and bottom. Apply the paper in the ordinary way as soon as you please, and if the paste is properly made it will remain firm for years.

A German phrenologist asserts that young pear trees with smooth and red twigs will furnish juicy and well flavored fruit; while rough, green shoots indicate mealy, dry and tasteless article. With apples, rough branches indicate sour; smooth branches sweet fruit.

Sulphite (not sulphate) of soda is said to be both a preventative and cure for hog cholera. Give ten grains three times a day in their slops for prevention, and thirty grains as frequently for cure.

BALTIMORE proposes to erect a monument to George Peabody in Druid Hill Park, to cost $150,000.

LEADING free traders in Boston are endeavoring to engineer the labor reform movement.

THE counterfeit nickels that are so abundant in Nashville are made of pewter and are easily detected.

AN ingenious suicide in Wisconsin bent down a sapling, hitched himself to it by a rope about his neck, and let it spring.

J. VAN HORN, a farmer of Polk county, Iowa, raised a squash six feet eight inches around, and weighing 164 pounds.

THE savings bank at Fall River, Mass., has nearly $4,000,000 on deposit. This shows the factory operatives are thrifty and saving.

DURING a recent storm the Nemaha river in the vicinity of Seneca, Missouri, is reported to have risen at the rate of ten feet an hour.

THE old and new school Presbyterians have 3 synods, 16 presbyteries, 189 ministers, 263 churches, and 13,131 communicants in Iowa.

A LETTER from Brussels announces that a M. Landuran has invented an apparatus by which he is able to extract fire damp or any other vicious air from mines.

REV. DANIEL CLARK, pastor of the Plainville, Will county, Illinois, Presbyterian Church, was drowned, the other day, while attempting to cross a stream in that county.

THE ladies of Baltimore have undertaken the task of raising funds to erect a building for the Maryland State Asylum for inebriates, which was chartered by the Legislature nine years ago.

ANY one who wishes to indulge in a flight by fast trains from Chicago to New York must try it quickly, as the time-table is shortly to be changed back to the steady-going, easy old thirty-six hours.

TIFFANY & Co., the jewelry firm, are building a new store in Union Square, New York, to be completed next spring, at a cost of between $700,000 and $800,000. It will be five stories high and fire proof throughout.

HARTFORD, CONN., is going to have a "musical jubilee," which will consist of three concerts, in the Rink, October 20—22, under Theodore Thomas' conductorship, for the benefit of the soldiers' widows and orphans in that city.

THE grape crop in New Mexico this year will far exceed that of any former season, not only in quantity but quality. During the last season more than half a million of new vines were set out, many of them bearing fine crops this year.

A NEW ORLEANS attorney had for a client a young woman whose leg had been bitten by a dog, and had referred to the circumstance as an injury to "that elongated member which assists in sustaining the body in its efforts at locomotion."

ONE of the incidents of a recent fair at Bridgewater, Mass., was an ox race. A pair of oxen entered by Thomas Smith walked at the rate of a mile in less than thirteen minutes, and a pair entered by Nahum Tribou within less than fourteen minutes.

IT'S dangerous business sparking the Maplewood Institute girls at Pittsfield, Mass., this fall. Rev. C. V. Spear, the Principal, advertises that his grounds are "protected with powder and ball," and expects the "cousins" of the fair pupils to take due warning.

A LAWSUIT was recently tried before the Sullivan Circuit Court in Indiana, in which the matter in controversy was the key of a Sunday school library and two testaments—worth twenty-five cents. The Sheriff's costs for summoning witnesses amounted to $19,40.

JNO. TUSING died in Indianapolis last week, aged 105 years. He was born in Rockingham county, Va., February, 1764, and voted at every Presidential election in the United States. As a matter of course, he was personally acquainted with George Washington, and voted both for him and Grant.

AT the next election the people of Wisconsin will vote on two amendments to the State Constitution, increasing the salary of the Governor from $1,250 to $5,000 per annum, and that of the Lieutenant Governor to $1,000. The proposition is not a partisan one by any means, and many of the Democratic papers favor the change.

AS an Alderney bull was about to be shipped on board a steamer at New London, Ct., the other day, he became rebellious, and refused to go. Several obliging citizens standing by, one by one, undertook to "take the bull by the horns," and were each elevated into the air. Finally the bull sauntered on board the steamer of his own accord.

A MR. FLOYD, of Galena, Illinois, has a queer kind of a dog. He is six months old, has legs about two inches long, and, instead of hair, is covered with a heavy growth of black wool, exactly like that on a coarse wooled sheep. His tail is like that of a sheep, although he barks like a dog, and evidently belongs to a canine family. His mother was a Scotch terrier.

A CALIFORNIAN has on exhibition a copy of the Declaration of Independence, written in Chinese, on silk. The document is about twenty inches wide and five feet long. There are only three in existence, one in the Consulate at Hong Kong, one at the Patent office, and this one, which was inscribed and sent on by Chue A. Sine, Consular Interpreter at Kong Kong.

WORK on Mr. A. T. Stewart's hotel for working-women, in New York, is rapidly going forward. About three hundred men are now constantly employed. Much difficulty has been experienced in some parts of the ground in finding a hard bottom for the foundation stones of the exterior wall, and it has been found necessary to excavate through the soft clay fully thirty-five feet.

A YOUNG woman at St. Clair, Michigan, who had been suffering from nausea and headache, took vermifuge to relieve herself, and the cause of her sickness appeared in the shape of a small frog about three inches in length and half an inch in breadth. The reptile was of a dark color, without eyes, and is supposed to have been swallowed while a tadpole, at a spring, some months previous.

THE mineral wealth of Virginia is inexhaustible. At a railroad meeting in Charlestown, recently, Hon. William Milnes, the Congressman from that district, said: "If I were to state to the meeting that one hundred furnaces could be employed, with a capacity of producing 250 tons of iron per week for the next five hundred years, I would doubtless be laughed at; and yet such is the fact, so great is the mineral wealth of the Page Valley."

In Springfield, Mass., an enthusiastic man who attends eleven religious meetings a week is busy at his calling as a mechanic during every work day, and has one evening at home. This all, with fifty-two miles travel by rail per day to and from his work, which would seem to keep one fully occupied. Yet this diligent man finds time to read the Scriptures and the newspapers. If he fails at one of his meetings he is sure to be somewhere visiting the sick.

IN the township of Western, in Henry county, Illinois, a bull snake was killed which measured eight feet six inches, and one foot in circumference. In the same neighborhood a man discovered that a young cow belonging to him came home at night, for more than a week, robbed of her milk. On watching for the thief, he was filled with surprise and horror at seeing one of these huge snakes engaged in sucking her.

THE public debt of Virginia is attracting much attention in that State, it being very large, the accumulated interest of eight years having been added to the original debt, through the inability of the State to pay it. The Petersburg Index insists that West Virginia is in law and morals bound to bear her proportionate share of the debt, and it suggests that commissioners be appointed to take the subject into consideration and fully empowered to treat with the new State.

THE late Pliny Jewell, of Hartford, Ct., left no public bequests, and his entire property, which inventories between $366,000 and $400,000, will go to his widow and children. John G. Mix, of Hartford, who recently left an estate of $100,000, placed it all in the hands of trustees for distribution to his wife and children, his son not to receive over $600 per year. On the death of the heirs, the property will go to the grandchildren, or if there are none, to various benevolent objects.

MUCH excitement prevails in Craig county, Virginia, in consequence of the visit of two Germans who own such an extensive tract of land in Botetourt and that county. It is estimated that the number of acres claimed by them is much larger than heretofore announced—30,000 acres, some placing it as high as 125,000. Should such be the case, a large number of persons will lose farms on which they and their ancestors have been living for at least sixty years, and which they believe properly belonged to them.

AN interesting legal question will be before the court in Columbus, Ga., shortly. A lady of that city died last year in Germany, making a will disposing of some personal property, but not mentioning other that she possessed. It was written in German, an attested copy transmitted to Georgia and translated. When offered for probate a caveat was filed by the heirs. The question is whether a will which is legal in Germany, though not conforming to the laws of Georgia, shall stand in that State. Distinguished counsel are engaged on both sides.

THE fruit and tomato canning establishments in the lower part of New Jersey are doing a thriving business. The tomato crop was never better, and immense quantities will be put up for winter use. In Burlington there are three establishments, in which all kinds of fruit, vegetables, preserves, pickles, &c., are canned and bottled, giving employment to over five hundred persons. It is thought that one million cans will be filled during the season. There are also three canning factories at Bridgeton, which expect to put up two million cans of fruit and vegetables.

IN noticing the death of a child, aged one year and eight months, in that place, the Bucyrus (O.) Journal says: "The poor little innocent was strangely afflicted by painful boils, which almost literally covered him from his waist to the crown of his head, while the lower portion of his body was entirely free. These tumors would gather to a head, discharge a core, heal up, and be succeeded by others for nearly a month. One such affliction seriously ind sposes a grown person, but this poor little martyr to excruciating pain, suffered for a month from a series of such diseases, never free from a dozen at a time. His pitable cries, even when raised on the softest pillows, would move the hardest heart, and bring tears to the sternest eyes, and death could be hardly regarded as a terror when he brought relief to such protracted suffering."

SOME very funny awards were made at recent fairs in Illinois, in consequence of the difficulty of securing experts upon all the various awarding committees. A few days ago a gentleman sent a collection of recent fresh-water shells to the fair, and was awarded a fine set of silver spoons "for the best set of fossels." At Decatur a discussion arose about the respective merits of two paintings, called "cattle pieces." One represented cattle lying under trees, in which drawing, perspective and coloring were good; and the other an immense bull, standing in an open field, with trees in the foreground. The awarding committee was divided, and he who was giving the casting vote placed his decision on the ground that he only considered the bull, as the rest of the picture was not essential. But, by the laws of perspective, and taking the trees as the only visible measure, the bull must at least have been thirty feet high! It was the biggest bull, in two senses, which we remember to have heard of.

AT Ann Arbor, Michigan, recently, a Mr. Fay, a well-known "spiritual medium," held a seance, which was attended by a number of young men. A door opened from the room occupied by the medium into the one containing the spectators, and another from the medium's room into the hall, over which was a glass light. A young man took such a position as to enable him to see through the light over the door, what was going on in the room where Fay was to hold communion with the spirits. The medium was tied in a manner suggested by himself, and a sheet hung before the door, concealing the medium from the view of the spectators. In a very short time the music of a guitar was heard, and the medium found to be untied. The person at the glass light over the door says that he saw Fay release himself from the ropes with which he was tied, and saw him take up a guitar and play on it, and if there were any spirits present he failed to see them. The price of admission was refunded by the medium on being [illegible] that his [illegible]ery was discovered.

HIRAM FAY is a Wisconsin man whose domestic amusements consist in beating his wife with a large rod which he keeps for the purpose, and holding his children's heads under water until they become insensible.

AN anxious parent in New Orleans caused the arrest of his eloping daughter, and when it was proved in Court that she was of age and capable of choosing her own husband, her father still urged her restraint because she was "small of her age and sort o'cranky like."

THERE is now no living ex-President of the United States who was elected to the office by the people. Franklin Pierce was the last of these. The only surviving ex-Presidents are Millard Fillmore and Andrew Johnson, and they were only chosen to be Vice-Presidents.

A MINNESOTA Judge, in sentencing a criminal whose offence would send him to the county jail for one year or to the State Prison for two years, chose and imposed the latter sentence. The Judge put it on the ground of humanity, not deeming the jail fit to be inhabited.

HON. JOHN MORRISSEY, observing the suffering occasioned at Mechanicsville, New York, consequent upon the recent flood, started a subscription paper and raised $800 for the benefit of poor persons whose houses had been swept away. Of this sum he subscribed $500 himself.

THE Baron Henry de Rivere, who created a sensation in this country in 1861, by eloping with a Mobile belle, was arrested in New York, Saturday, at the suit of Helene Stille, whom he, it is alleged, seduced in Paris in 1865, and took to South America, and who claims that he has swindled her out of 27,500 francs.

GEO. R. LINGLE, editor of a Sedalia (Mo.) paper, while on a recent visit to St. Louis, was mistaken for a deserter from the United States army, and had to spend a night in the calaboose, though he offered to prove who he was by many very simple expedients which his captors refused to adopt. He has sued the city for $10,000 damages.

GEN. SHERIDAN was called upon for a speech at the Wisconsin State Fair, and said: "Ladies and gentlemen. I know you do not expect me to make a speech, and so I will only make my bow." He bowed, but was again called for, and came forward, bowing, and said: "Ladies and gentlemen, I will repeat my little speech, and give way to others."

"SIM," the Chief of the Washoe Indians, is dead. A newspaper published among the Rocky Mountains says of him obituarily: "He was a good man, though very dirty red man. He possessed a well balanced head of hair, and stomach enough for all he could get to eat. His regard for the truth was notable—he never meddled with it. He left no will and his estate consisted of a pair of boots."

SOME forty years ago Mr. S. W. Davis, a bookseller in Cincinnati, extended pecuniary aid to a Mr. B. T. Hanley, almost an entire stranger to him, which saved him from bankruptcy. Mr. Hanley shortly after left Cincinnati for Missouri, and now he turns up at St. Louis with a fortune of $2,000,000, which he has devised by will to Mr. Davis, in consideration of the aid furnished him in his time of need.

A YOUNG man named Louis L. Smith jumped out of a third story window in Chicago the other day, and singularly enough escaped without serious injury. The reason he assigned for the insane feat was that three young women followed him to his room, and to shun temptation he resorted to the rather perilous experiment. (Joseph outdone!) The young man's condition, however, indicated that he was laboring under a peculiar phase delirium tremens.

THERE are men, here and there, who are a little too smart, even for themselves. There is a will now under settlement in New York city, in which a rich old gentleman very effectually revenges himself upon a son-in-law. It happened that the son-in-law got some hold upon the old man whereby he compelled him to settle $100,000 upon his wife (the old man's daughter) before the affair was arranged. As in duty bound, the old gentleman ultimately paid the debt of nature, and, of course, the heirs were wide awake for the will. There were three daughters and one son, and the old man left to the son $1,000,000, to each of the two daughters $1,000,000, but to the daughter whose husband had played the trick upon him nothing more than a receipt for the $100,000 paid to her smart husband.

THE Hindoos in Bombay have lately been much disturbed by a velocipede rider, they mistook for their good Vishnu. The story runs thus: The god had several times been seen at night whirling past on a celestial wheel like a flash of fire. As he approached the faithful prostrated themselves in the dust. Yet all the time it is not really Vishnu; it is only a certain Mr. Kemp, who, ambitious to be the first velocipede rider under the Asiatic sun, has provided himself with one of these vehicles, but finding that the heat rendered it an incumbrance rather than a luxury in the daytime, is compelled to take his exercise upon it [illegible]ght, by the aid of a lantern.

DR. WHITTIER
CONTINUES TO TREAT ALL private diseases. Syphilis in all its forms, all urinary diseases, and the effects of mercury are completely eradicated; Spermatorrhea or Seminal Weakness and Impotency, resulting from self-abuse or other causes, and which produces some of the following effects, as blotches, bodily weakness, indigestion, consumption, aversion to society, unmanliness, dread of future events, loss of memory, indolence, nocturnal emissions, and finally so prostrating the sexual system as to render marriage unsatisfactory, and therefore imprudent, are permanently cured. Persons afflicted with these or any other delicate, intricate or long standing constitutional complaint should give the Doctor a trial; he never fails.
A particular attention given to all Female complaints, Leucorrhea or Whites, Falling, Inflammation, or Ulceration of the Womb, Ovaritis, pruritis, Amenorrhoea, Menorrhagia, Dysmenorrhoea, and Sterility or Barrenness, are treated with the greatest success.
It is self-evident that a physician who confines himself exclusively to the study of a certain class of diseases and treats thousands of cases every year must acquire greater skill in that specialty than one in general practice.
The Doctor publishes a medical pamphlet of fifty pages that gives a full exposition of venereal and private diseases, that can be had free at office or by mail for two stamps, in sealed envelopes. Every sentence contains instruction to the afflicted, and enabling them to determine the precise nature of their complaints.
The establishment, comprising ten ample rooms, is central. When it is not convenient to visit the city, the Doctor's opinion can be obtained by giving a written statement of the case, and medicines can be forwarded by mail or express. In some instances, however, a personal examination is absolutely necessary, while in others daily personal attention is required, and for the accommodation of such patients there are apartments connected with the office that are provided with every requisite that is calculated to promote recovery, including medicated vapor baths. All prescriptions are prepared in the Doctor's own laboratory, under his personal supervision. Medical pamphlets at office free, or by mail for two stamps. No matter who have failed, read what he says. Hours 9 A.M. to 8 P.M. Sundays 12 M. to 3 P.M. Office, No. 9 WYLIE STREET, (near Court House,) Pittsburgh, a

ALLEGHENY CATTLE MARKET.

OFFICE OF PITTSBURGH GAZETTE, MONDAY, October 10, 1869.

CATTLE.

There was again a very full supply of cattle on sale to-day, close on to 1,200 head, and as has been the case for some time past, good cattle sold without much difficulty at full prices, while the common and mediun grades moved slowly and some of the latter kind were left over unsold. The demand was confined mainly to supplying the wants of the local trade, there being but very few outside buyers in attendance, and the market was a little tame, though after all there is not much change in prices, compared with last week. There was some few fancy cattle sold at 8, but this is an outside figure, as most of the good cattle were sold at from 7½ to 7¾, and there were some very good butchers stock sold at 7@7¼. Light steers, cows and heifers, and of these the offerings consisted mainly, sold at from 4 to 5½, as to quality and condition. Of the cattle on sale there was about the usual number from Chicago, Ohio and Indiana, and the number from adjoining counties was large, particularly from Washington and Butler.

Holmes, Laferty & Co. sold 100 head of mixed stock at 5@8¼.

Traurman & Lobman sold 74 head from Chicago and Ohio, at 5@7.

Hazlewood & Blackstock 100 head mixed Ohio stock at 4½@7.

L & J. Shamberg report 107 on sale.

S. Marks & Bro. 65 head Washington county stock at 5@6½, and 43 from Chicago at 4¾@7¾.

Greenwald & Kahn 85 head mixed stock at 4@7½.

L. Rothchilds & Zeigler 60 head steers from Chicago at 5¼@7¼.

Katz & Keefer 38 head good steers from Chicago at 5@6.

Haas & Kraus sold 51 Ohio steers at 5@7 cents.

M. Verner sold 30 head Washington county stock at 6@7,40; 22 from Ohio at 5@5½; 12 from Green county, Pa., at 5½@6,20; 52 head unsold.

Jacob Rothchilds 30 head Ohio cattle at 3@5¼.

S. Lowenstein had on sale 19 steers from Chicago, but was unable to sell.

Jacob Needy sold 18 head fair to prime Ohio stock, for Vannatta, at 5¼@7½, and 20 head for Warner & Co. at 5½@6¼.

McNeese wholesaled 23 head medium Butler county stock at about 4½ cents.

Adam Eckert 11 head Butler county stock at 5@5½.

Garwin & Co. 25 head Butler county stock.

Sheltmantle & Flinner 30 head Butler county cows, heifers and steers.

Smith & Blue wholesaled 16 head Ohio heifers at 5@6½; retailed 13 at 4@5.

Hedges & Taylor sold 82 head of fair to extra at 5@8.

Wilson & Hart sold 18 head Washington county cows, heifers and steers at 4@6¼.

SHEEP AND LAMBS.

The supply of sheep was not very large, though fully up to the demand, and, as has been the case for some time past, they were mainly of an inferior grade. Prime fat sheep were in good demand, and sold readily at full prices, and the market, even for the commoner grades, appeared to be stronger, and the pens were all pretty well cleared out by noon. We are cognizant of prime fat sheep having been sold at $4,50@4,75 per head or 5 cts. per pound. Lambs sold all the way from $1,00@3,50 per head.

John Young wholesaled 95 head good fleshy sheep, averaging 80 lbs., at $2,00 per head.

Adam Eckart sold 37 lambs at $1,50@3,00; 58 sheep at $1,75@3,00.

Ranes Stouffer 200; sheep at $1,50@4,75; lambs at $1,75@2,25.

C. Beeler 120; sold sheep at $2,00@3,00; lambs at $1,50@3,00.

M. Humes wholesaled 150 Beaver Co. sheep and lambs, at $1,90 per head.

Garwin & Co. sold 225.

Stakely Bro. 150; sold sheep at $2,00@3,00; lambs at $2,00.

J. F. Alburn 228; sold sheep at $1,50@2,25; lambs same.

Sheitemantle & Filnner 140; sold sheep at $1,50@3,50; lambs at $1,25.

J. C. McNeese sold 90 sheep and lambs at an average of $2,00.

Johnathan Davis 140; sheep at $1,75@4,00; $1,50@3,00 for lambs.

C. H. Moulton 103; sheep at $2,30@4,50; lambs at $2,00@3,00.

James Shaw sold 123 sheep and lambs $1,00@4,00.

John McMurtry 108 sheep averaging 70 lbs at an average of $1,50 per head.

Dennis Haggerty 133 from Butler Co; sold 31 at $3,05@3,40.

Frank Kraus 140 fine wooled sheep at $1,25@4,25.

HOGS.

The Hog market is quiet and unchanged. As is usually the case, the demand is a little more active with the approach of cold weather, but butchers take hold sparingly at present prices. We continue to quote at $10,50@11,50 per cent gross, in a retail way, for prime averages.

PETROLEUM MARKET.

OFFICE OF PITTSBURGH GAZETTE, MONDAY, October, 11, 1869.

The oil market opened up considerably stronger this morning, in sympathy with the improved character of the foreign news, but in the afternoon the feeling seemed to be a little easier, though there was no quotable change in prices. The report of the Titusville Herald, in regard to the production for September, was received, by telegraph, or at least the most important parts of it, and as might be expected it caused considerable discussion both pro and con. So far as we could learn, there were none disposed to doubt its correctness, but both the bulls and bears were disposed to put their particular construction upon it, so as to make it appear favorable to their particular interests, and both appeared to be successful, at least to their own satisfaction. While it was acknowledged on the one hand that there has been an increase in the production, compared with August, it had to be conceded on the other hand, that there is a decrease in stocks, and an increase in shipments, and the one appeared to offset the other. The Herald reports the daily production for September at 12,645 bbls, against 11,486 same month last year. Stock on hand October 1st, 1869, 292,419 bbls, against 263,808 bbls, same time last year. Average daily production from January 1st to Oct. 1st, 1869, 11,033 bbls; same time last year 10,026 bbls. From the above figures it will be seen that the production thus far in 1869, is larger than it was in the same time in 1868, and that the stock on hand in the oil regions on October 1st 1869, was larger than at the corresponding time last year. As an offset against this, however, it is contended that the stocks in all of the leading markets, both in this country and Europe, are very much reduced, compared with the corresponding time last year, and that the demand for 1869 will be much larger than it was in 1868.

REFINED.

Not a single sale effected, at least there were none reported, and while, as already intimated, the market was somewhat excited, yet in the afternoon the excitement appeared to have subsided, though there was no change in prices. October last half quoted at 32, and October to December, at 32⅜@32½.

CRUDE.

There is a difference of a ¼ of a cent made between 40 to 45 and 40 to 46 gravities, and we now quote the former, for spot or seller this month, at 15, and the latter at 14¾. Sale 500 bbls spot (40 to 45) at 15; 1,500 seller this month (40 to 45) at 15; 1,000 same delivery on cars at Oil City, at $5,80; and 1,000 bbls on lower creek, at $5,50.

RIVER NEWS.

As there are no marks to indicate the stage of water, it is impossible to give it, correctly, as reporters and everybody else are obliged to guess at it. It is the business of somebody to see that new marks are put in the place of the old ones, and the sooner it is done the better as it is important, especially when the river is low, as is the case now, to know exactly how much water there is, and whether it is rising, falling or at a stand. According to the best information we could get on the matter, there were about 30 inches in the channel last evening, possibly 31 or 32.

There has been no arrivals since the date of our last report, excepting the New State for Wheeling.

The Messenger, Capt. Jesse Dean, is filling up slowly, and will be the first boat out for New Orleans.

Capt. Stockdale was in hopes yesterday afternoon that the Sallie would get over Glass House last evening.

The Julia arrived from Zanesville yesterday afternoon, and will return again to-day.

The Wauanita was the only boat in port at Cincinnati on Sunday evening.

The funeral of Mollie daughter of Capt. John N. Shunk, was to have taken place from the Spencer House, Cincinnati, on Sunday.

Capt. Thos. Rogers was in St. Louis on Friday.

PACIFIC RAILWAY GOLD LOAN.

Messrs. DABNEY, MORGAN & CO., 53 Exchange Place, and M. K. JESUP & CO., 12 Pine Street, N. Y., offer for sale the Bonds of the Kansas Pacific Railway. These Bonds pay seven per cent. in Gold; have thirty years to run; are Free from Government Taxation; are secured by a Land Grant of Three Million Acres of the Finest Lands in Kansas and Colorado. In addition to this special grant the Company also owns Three Millions of Acres in Kansas, which are being rapidly sold to develop the country and improve the road. They are a first mortgage upon the extension of the road from Sheridan, Kansas, to Denver, Colorado. The road in operation, 437 miles long, upon which it is also a mortgage, NOW EARNS MORE THAN ENOUGH NET INCOME TO PAY THE INTEREST ON THE NEW LOAN. There is no better security in the market—this being in some respects better than Government Securities. PRINCIPAL AND INTEREST PAYABLE IN GOLD. Price 96, and accrued Interest, in Currency. Pamphlets, Maps and Circulars furnished on application.

We have a full supply of the above Bonds on hand and for sale, and we take pleasure in recommending them as a very reliable and perfectly safe investment.

☞HEADQUARTERS UNION REPUBLICAN EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE.

To the Union Republican Voters and Vigilance Committees of Allegheny County.

But one working day remains before the election. Every Republican should devote that day to active, diligent work.

The Local Vigilance Committees should meet nightly until election day, and thoroughly examine and canvass their lists. If the names of any legal voters are not on the registration list, they should neverth less be brought to the polls, and on making the proofs by affidavit, provided for by the registry law, they will be allowed to vote.

In every election district there should be SPECIAL COMMITTEES APPOINTED TO MARK OFF the names of those who have voted, and in that manner you can ascertain who has not, up to three o'clock, voted. AFTER THAT HOUR SEND OUT for all such and have them brought in. HAVE CHALLENGERS APPOINTED in every election district, of good, reliable Republicans, who are well acquainted with the citizens of the district. See that the tickets are correct and properly distributed.

Bear in mind that, under the new Registry law, the polls in city and county must be opened between the hours of six and seven o'clock in the morning, and closed at 7 o'clock in the evening.

This will give an opportunity to many of the working and business men to vote before going to their labors.

In another column of this paper you will find the address of the Naturalization Committee, setting forth what constitute the requisite qualifications of voters, and containing other information, to which your careful attention is invited.

Remember that every naturalized voter must present his certificate of naturalization to the Election Board, and should therefore carry it with him on going to the polls.

Voters should be careful to examine their tickets and see that they are right, as the opposition have flooded the County with spurious ones, in the main Republican, but having on them names of certain of their candidates, and more especially the name of WM. H. McGEE, Democratic nominee for Commissioner, instead of that of CHAUNCEY B. BOSTWICK, the regular Republican nominee.

It is to be hoped that every measure will be adopted, by the earnest Republicans and the Vigilance Committees of this county, to bring out on Tuesday next a FULL REPUBLICAN VOTE, and thus secure a great Republican victory.

By order of the Executive Committee.

W. S. PURVIANCE, Chairman,
WALTER S. M'CUNE, COL. GEO. F. MORGAN, } Secretaries.

THE three States of Pennsylvania, Ohio and Iowa hold their annual elections today.

EVERY Republican who stays away from the polls, helps the Democratic candidates.

SPARE no pains to have every legal vote deposited, and every illegal one excluded.

THE Paraguayan tyrant, Lopez, has made his escape safely into the interior of Bolivia.

A FULL Republican vote will secure the election of GEARY and WILLIAMS. Let it be polled.

THE POLLS open between the hours of six and seven in the morning, and close at seven in the evening. It is much better to be early than late.

BETWEEN a soldier and a statesman, on one side, and a coal dealer and speculator, on the other, the people ought not to hesitate in selecting a Governor.

EVERY soldier in Pennsylvania ought to vote the Republican ticket because the sympathies of PACKER and PERSHING were against them during the war.

WE SHALL be under obligations to our friends who will bring to us early returns of the votes in the city and suburban precincts. Our office will be open all night.

SUPPORTING GOV. GEARY is an endorsement of President GRANT'S policy of honestly collecting the taxes and applying the proceeds to the reduction of the National debt.

GO TO the polls as soon as they are opened, and vote. After that attend to others. Give one whole day to your country, if your business engagements will possibly permit.

Go to the polls early. Vote at once. Then see that your neighbor votes. If put off until afternoon or evening, something may occur to preveht you from getting to the polls at all.

REMEMBER that the State debt, which was constantly increased under Democratic rule, has been reduced six millions since the Republicans came into power, and is in a fair way to be extinguished under their management.

REPUBLICANS whose business is away from their abodes, should make it a point to vote before going to their employments. Failing in this, they should certainly go home in season to cast their ballots.

WILL the Cleveland Herald reconstruct Mr. DICKENS' recent declaration, according to its own citations from WEBSTER? Doing so, it will see that the laugh comes in at its own expense. In its zeal to be critical, it only made a display of stupidity.

MR. PACKER and his supporters, declare against negro suffrage. In the late Democratic State Convention in Mississippi there were seventy-three negro delegates, and one of them was nominated for Secretary of State. Hence, it appears that democracy is conditioned by latitude and longitude, being one thing here and another there!

LESS than one vote in each district lost the Republicans the State in 1862 and 1867. Perry county elected a member of the Legislature by one majority in 1863. Abraham Barker carried Mifflin county by one vote. Six fraudulent votes elected a Democrat to the Legislature from Philadelphia last year. Poll every lawful vote.

TWO THIRDS of all the revenue of the Commonwealth is raised by taxes on corporations. Mr. PACKER has a larger pecuniary interest in corporations than any other man in the State, and he has demonstrated to what extent he will carry efforts to get rid of tax paying. No man is more unfit than he to be placed in a position where he would have special influence in relieving companies from the taxes they now pay and of putting them on individuals.

AFTER TO-DAY no one will have any right at all to complain that either Allegheny or Pittsburgh has been slighted in regard to the Soldier's Monument by the Committee having that matter in charge. Allegheny or Pittsburgh will to-day be decided upon by the voters of the county, and after that decision steps will immediately be taken to make the monument an existing fact. Allegheny or Pittsburgh? then, is the question to be decided to-day at the polls by the votes of those most interested.

EVERY earnest Republican should remember that the party has special need of his best services to day, arising out of the fact that certain newspapers, professedly of their faith, have labored most assiduously, through a series of months, to engender dissatisfaction in all the ranks, and thus prepare the way for defeat. These efforts impose a double duty on all men who are not prepared to hand over the State into the hands of the men whose sympathies were with the rebels during the war, and whose counsels and promises beforehand, induced the Southern leaders to plunge into the revolt. Thus forewarned, it will be his own fault, if any Republican shall not be found forearmed.

IT HAS transpired that the Democratic leaders, true to the system they have heretofore pursued, mean to poll a very heavy fraudulent vote in the lower wards of Philadelphia, and in Northampton and Luzerne counties. The two latter counties are those in which Mr. Packer's large business operations are situated, and his friends may find congenial material to work upon. But no such frauds as are contemplated, and as necessrry to elect Mr. Packer, can be perpetrated, without provoking a thorough sifting at the hands of the Legislature.

And, mark; it is just while these frauds are brewing that the Democrats are bawling loudest against political corruption, and the need of their restoration to power as a means of reformation!

THE Post yesterday leveled a broadside against ALEX. HILANDS, Esq., the worthy nominee of the Republican party for the office of Clerk of Orphan's Courts. That gentleman is too well and favorably known in this community to need any vindication or words of commendation at our hands. He is honest, moral, upright and intelligent, and commands the respect of the entire community. His record as an active, consistent and hard working Republican is clear and unsullied, and he should receive the hearty and unanimous support of every voter who holds to the same principles. Aside from his political and personal qualities, he is eminently qualified to discharge the duties of the office. Let him have the full, square vote of all Republicans.

THE DEMOCRATS have persistently charged Gov. GEARY with abusing the pardoning power. Possibly he has been imposed upon in a few instances, and has pardoned men who ought to have suffered the full measure of punishment; but if so, he has done no worse than all his predecessors in office, and all who succeed him. No Governor is infallible. But the records show that Gov. GEARY has used the pardoning power with peculiar moderation. Look and be convinced:

Gov. Mifflin issued	1,188	pardons.
" McKean "	1,909	"
" Snyder "	1,535	"
" Heister "	1,304	"
" Schultz "	821	"
" Wolf "	702	"
" Ritner "	581	"
" Porter "	900	"
" Shunk "	700	"
" Bigler "	750	"
" Pollock "	213	"
" Packer, (not Asa)	312	"
" Curtin issued	900	"
" Geary "	198	"

And, mark! The population is vastly increased beyond what it was in the days of MIFFLIN, MCKEAN, SNYDER, HEISTER, PORTER, SHUNK and BIGLER. Taking this difference into account, it must be admitted by all candid men that Gov. GEARY has not freely used the pardoning power, but has employed it less frequently, by large odds, than any of his predecessors.

In proportion to population, MIFFLIN and all the earlier Governors, must have pardoned at least fifty criminals where Gov. GEARY has pardoned one.

$56,968,187.90!

This is the magnificent sum paid off on the public debt during the seven months of President Grant's administration. The total amount for the year ending March 4th, 1870, will reach one hundred millions. At this rate every dollar of the debt could be paid off in about twenty years. Who says that the United States cannot pay her obligations in full?

BADLY DEMORALIZED.

There must have been a bad use, or no use at all, made of Mr. Packer's $8,000 remittance to his local engineers in this district. His party have already thrown up the sponge. Bets of two to one in GEARY'S favors found no takers yesterday. Now, boys, push on the column! The grand old party of Republican Union shall have its dress parade to-day, since the oppostion have no stomach for fight. Every man to the front! Forward!

STAND AT THE POLLS.

Let the best and most prominent Republicans of each election district stand at the polls, from morning until night. There has been too much neglect of this important matter. The presence of well known citizens at the voting places is a source of power that is always felt. We hope to see a new order of affairs at the election to-day. Good citizens should feel bound, at least, to give the countenance of their presence to those who labor for the success of the principles of the party. Let such be the first at the polls and the last to leave.

DON'T BE SURE OF IT.

The skies are bright—but all the signs have sometimes been known to fail. It is the uniform judgment of experienced politicians, of both parties, that GEARY and WILLIAMS are to be elected to-day by decisive majorities—but let no citizen indulge himself in this anticipation, until he has seen his own ballot safely deposited in the boxes. The way to win a victory, is not only to "trust in Providence and keep your powder dry," but to burn the powder in the right way, at the right time, and plenty of it.

Don't reckon upon your neighbor's votes, and stay away from the polls yourself! If you do you may regret it, as you certainly will if Gov. GEARY and Judge WILLIAMS are beaten!

Be sure of nothing, except that you have yourself voted a full, straight ticket Then you can be sure of your own personal responsibility, be the result what it may.

WHY RE-ELECT GOV. GEARY?

Because his administration has been HONEST and CAPABLE—two indispensable pre-requisites.

Because he is a fit representative of the party that has stood for the Union and for equal rights under the laws, against all organizations, whether of opinion or of force, which have been arrayed in opposition thereto.

Because he represents a party that has ruled wisely and firmly, under conditions of peculiar peril, inspiring the people of this country and of the whole world, with sentiments of love and devotion to personal liberty and popular government.

Because the record of his official career bears incontestible evidence that he thoroughly understands the duties of the office and zealously executes them.

Because his administration has been dignified, impartial and honorable.

Because since he has administered the affairs of the Commonwealth millions of dollars have been saved to the people and applied to the extinguishment of the public debt.

Because if re-elected, he will continue to direct the Gubernatorial office with wisdom and economy.

Because his re-election will be hailed with exultation by Republicans in all all parts of the Union, and inspire them with renewed hopes and unconquerable energy.

Because the public welfare would be endangered by taking the control out of the hands of a man who understands all the requirements of the position, and has the courage to use his prerogatives in the interests of Right, Justice and Humanity.

Because his success will be an emphatic endorsement of the National Administration, than which there has been none with greater claims upon popular confidence since the formation of the Government.

Because the election of Mr. Packer would result in an inefficient and incompetent administration, for the reason that he knows nothing of public affairs, is too old to learn anything, and has no intelligent conceptions of the cardinal principles of individual freedom under government by the people.

Because the election of Mr. Packer would be a triumph of New York interests over those of Pennsylvania.

Because the election of Mr. Packer would be a triumph of railway monopolists and monied aristocracy, which combination is already too strong for the public safety.

Because every man who has a due appreciation of sterling honesty; every man who takes a just pride in the good name of Pennsylvania; every man who places a higher value upon solid worth, tried loyalty and practical sense, than upon the bare possession of money, will give untiring and hearty aid in pushing on the Geary column to that brilliant success that all indications unite in proclaiming to be inevitable.

HENRY W. WILLIAMS.

Two years ago, his own friends and neighbors of Allegheny county were responsible for the defeat of our distinguished fellow citizen, then a candidate for that place on the Supreme Bench which his successful rival, now Justice SHARSWOOD, has not filled to the satisfaction of the non-partizan people of the Commonwealth. The meagre majority of the opposition candidate—only 922 in a total poll of 534,570—ought to have been more than doubly cancelled by the hearty support of the people of this county, who have thoroughly known and as universally have respected the personal qualities and professional abilities of Judge WILLIAMS. We had polled here, in '66, only a twelve month before, a total vote of over 33,000, with a majority of nearly 8,000 for Governor Geary. Yet when our people were invited, in '67, to express their judicial preferences, we could give to our own neighbor,—this citizen of a character unimpeachable, this jurist of splendid attainments, whose private friends and professional clients might have been, and are still to be counted by thousands, irrespective of party,—a majority of only 6,340. To be sure, the total vote was small that year, only about 26,000, but the falling off in the Republican vote was, compared with the vote of '66, considerably larger than that of the opposition. Over four thousand of Judge WILLIAMS' friends stayed at home, not because they were not heartily desirous of his election, but because they regarded the success of so estimable a candidate as a sure thing, without the help of a few citizens, here and there, whose convenience led them in other directions on the election day. Twenty-four hours after the closing of the polls in '66, it is safe to say that there were two thousand men in this county who would each have given any reasonable sum for the privilege of atoning for their neglect.

We appeal this morning to every friend of HENRY W. WILLIAMS, whose eye rests upon this imprint, to see to it that an upright and accomplished magistrate is not again dishonored in this way in the house of his friends. He asks, we ask, the Republicans of the Commonwealth entreat, that he shall this day have the voice of every citizen of Allegheny county who believes that he possesses the needful qualifications for a Supreme Judge.

Citizens of Pittsburgh and Allegheny, and of the suburban boroughs! you have known HENRY W. WILLIAMS long and well. For a quarter of a century you have wintered him and summered him. You know him as a citizen, as a lawyer, and as a Judge. Not a man of you can put his finger upon one stone to cast upon your fellow-townsman. There is not a man of you, regardless of party, who would not feel, in his assured election today, a sentiment of comfortable satisfaction that the ultimate administration of public justice is to be confided to the pure hands, the ripe intellect and the unquestionable experience of Judge WILLIAMS.

Throughout the Commonwealth the bench and bar alike desire his continuance in the Supreme Court. The nomination of a party has been given to him, not alone because his political principles are sound, but rather because, in all this broad State, there was not found any worthy competitor against his universally conceded merits.

The voters of Allegheny county can now elect him if they will, repairing thus the wrong from which he suffered innocently two years since. We owe his election this day more to ourselves, and far more to the Commonwealth than we do to him. He so regards it, and so we put the issue before every fair-minded reader of this appeal.

Let Allegheny speak for[illegible]rite to-day in language which [illegible] be misunderstood, or gainsayed. We want ten thousand majority for HENRY W. WILLIAMS.

THE ALLEGHENY COUNTY SOLDIERS' MONUMENT.

The location of this long talked of monument is one of the issues to be decided at the polls to-day. All unprejudiced persons have from the beginning believed that the most eligible and fitting site for it is to be found on the hill or on the plain in the Allegheny Park. Pittsburgh is without a Park or other suitable place for the proposed erection, and the recent election showed that the people are not ready for providing public grounds. Allegheny is putting her park into a most attractive shape and condition, and it is at all times equally free to the people of both cities, and is much nearer the center of our urban population than any possible site of a Pittsburgh Park, if any should be selected.

If placed on Seminary Hill in the Allegheny Park, it may be seen by every traveler as he arrives or departs, whether by rail or river, and be of easy access to all of every class, in either city. There should be no local jealousy in this matter; the soldier, whose valour it is designed to commemorate, fought and died for all. Whether on the North or South side, or on the delta between the rivers, all should now vie with each other in voting for the best site, and every unbiased reader will agree that not one of all the places hitherto mentioned, combines half the considerations in its favor as the site in the Allegheny Park. It is a matter of gladness that no party issues are touched by this question, and it is to be hoped that the best place will be chosen.

PITTSBURGHER.

MINOR TOPICS.

FOR A QUIET Quaker town Philadelphia has more murders, riots, fires and mysteries than she gets credit for. In the one matter of mysterious horrors there is probably no other place outside of Paris that can compare with her. Frightful murders which would have given many a blissful moment to Edgar A. Poe take place every three weeks. Fires destroy houses there that would be altogether fire-proof elsewhere. Riots are gotten up in quiet times in principal thoroughfares for the amusement of the Mayor and under the personal management of the Aldermen. And firemen whir their machines terrifically through the town, smashing private citizens and their vehicles until two of them meet, as they did not long since, in the most decorous portion of the city, when the air suddenly fillies with missiles, the gutters run with blood, and the survivors go to their homes and hospitals, except, perhaps, a terrified neighbor or two, who, having looked from his door to see the cause of the turmoil, is triumphantly seized by a policeman and marched off in custody. Some people say they prefer New York to Philadelphia because there is so much more life there; this may be so, but there is more death—of the violent sort—in the city of Brotherly Love.

AT Meadville, last week, while Gov. Jno. W. Geary was addressing a great mass meeting of Republicans, and just as he was in the middle of a well-rounded sentence, the platform on which he, together with the officers of the meeting, stood, suddenly gave way, precipitating all to the ground. The Governor, as he was going down, continued speaking, losing not a word, and he struggled out from the broken timbers still talking as though nothing had happened to disturb his equilibrium, affording an exhibition of that coolness and self-possession which combined to make him the great hero and soldier. Scarcely one man out of ten thousand could, under similar circumstances, have controlled his nerves so effectually and retained such presence of mind, and it is as much from these little circumstances as from greater ones that we all draw our estimates of a man's character and qualities.

"THE French Vintage is a success this year." This little announcement does not seem to be of much importance here, but in France it means life and happiness to thousands. When the vintage is good it is easy to be honest, for bread is then cheap and money plenty, but when the grape crop fails, the prisons soon fill up with an unusual number of petty larcenists starved into crime. When the vintage is a success for several years, wine becomes plenty and whisky and other liquors so scarce that drunkenness declines and happiness increases. When the grapes fail, poverty and misery fill the land, men drown their sorrows in the liquor they find the cheapest, and their wives and children suffer.

THERE is good news from New Jersey; her staple crop is very abundant this year; her cranberries are an overwhelming success. Few people probably have any idea of the importance or the magnitude of this product, even to those who do, it will awaken incredulity to read that Ocean county alone values her crop this year at $2,500,000, and an acre of good cranberry land costs as much as $2,500. With Kentucky to furnish us with turkeys and New Jersey thus liberally supplying our cranberry sauce, we may look with real pleasure to the approaching Thanksgiving.

MANY cases of accidental poisoning have been recorded during the past few years, and there have been almost as many attempts made to devise means to prevent such accidents, but as yet nothing has been found that was practicable. The following suggestion should, we think, be universally adopted. It proposes that all bottles holding poison shall bear the word "poison" conspicuously placed upon the label, and immediately beneath the most easily attainable effective antidote. Thus upon a bottle of mineral acid might be

"POISON!
If taken by accident, give (mixed with water) chalk, soap, whiting or ceiling scrapings."

Similar labels might be printed for the various classes of deadly drugs,

Packer's Statesmanship.

Asa Packer was in Congres in 1855 and 1856, and cast four important votes:

1. Against the admission of Kansas under a free constitution—House Journal, July 3, 1866, page 1,150.

2. In favor of using the military power of the Government to enforce the enactments of the bogus Lecompton Legislature, in aid of the border ruffians.—House Journal, July 29, 1856, page 2,303.

3. Against the settlement and payment of the claims of the widows of Revolutionary soldiers.—House Journal, July 30, 1856, page 1,326.

4. In favor of the revival of the African slave trade.—December 19, 1956.

THOU BRINGEST ME LIFE—LUNG-WORT.

One of the truest and most suggestive ideas can be obtained from the caption at the head of this article; for of all diseases which impair human health and shorten human life, none are more prevalent than those which affect the lungs and pulmonary tissues. Whether we regard lung diseases in the light of a merely slight cough, which is but the fore-runner of a more serious malady, or as a deep lesion corroding and dissolving the pulmonary structure, it is always pregnant with evil and foreboding of disaster. In no class of maladies should the physician or the friends and family of the patient be more seriously forewarned than in those of the lungs, for it is in them that early and efficient treatment is most desirable, and it is then that danger can be warded off and a cure effected. In DR. KEYSER'S LUNG CURE you have a medicine of the greatest value in all these conditions. An alterative, a tonic, a nutrient and resolvent, succoring nature and sustaining the recuperative powers of the system, Its beautiful workings, in harmony with the regular functions, can be readily observed by the use of one or two bottles: it will soon break up the chain of morbid sympathies that disturb the harmonious workings of the animal economy. The harrassing cough, the painful respiration, the sputum streaked with blood, will soon give place to the normal and proper workings of health and vigor.

An aggregated experience of over thirty years has enabled Dr. Keyser, in the compounding of his LUNG CURE, to give new hope to the consumptive invalid and at the same time speedy relief in those now prevalent, catarrhal and throat affections, so distressing in their effects and so almost certainly fatal in their tendencies, unless cured by some appropriate remedy. DR. KEYSER'S LUNG CURE is so thorough and efficient, that any one who has ever used it, will never be without it in the house. It will often cure when everything else fails, and in simple cases will cure oftentimes in a few days.

The attention of patients, as well as medical men, is respectfully invited to this new and valuable addition to the pharmacy of the country.

DR. KEYSER may be consulted every day until 1 o'clock P. M. at his Great Medicine Store, 167 Liberty street, and from 4 to 6 and 7 to 9 at night.

THE FALL AND ITS DANGERS.

Animal as well as vegetable life is powerfully affected by the great atmospheric change that takes place in the Fall. But for the flowers, the foliage and herbs of the field there is no help. Their time has come and die they must. It is otherwise with man. For him the means of re-invigoration have been provided by skill and science. To recruit his exhausted energies and fortify himself against the disorders generated by the sudden depression of temperature and the unwholesome exhalations of Autumn, let him tone his nervous system, invigorate his digestion and give edge to his appetite with HOSTETTER'S STOMACH BITTERS. He may then face the morbid influences of the season fearlessly. The chilling night dews and heavy morning mists will have no power so make him shiver and burn, to affect his liver to disorder his stomach or his bowels, to rack his joints with rheumatism, or to render any latent element of disease in his system active and dangerous. To the sufferer from general debility, whether constitutional or arising from other causes,—this potent vegetable specific is earnestly recommended. And let it be remembered that physical weakness opens the way to all maladies. Vigor is the chief reference of the human structure against all causes of disease, and HOSTETTER'S BITTERS may be truly pronounced the safest and surest of all invigorants. It is the most genial of all vegetable tonics, and is admirably adapted to the wants and weaknesses of the more delicate sex, as well as to the ailments of men.

SIX NIGHTS ONLY AND A MATINEE.

OPENING NIGHT, MONDAY, OCT. 18.

The management in announcing this memorable musical season. Mdme. PAREPA ROSA will inaugurate a new epoch in the history of the American stage. Her great success in Italian Opera in Europe and in this country, has given her that substantial fame in her musical career (which has consisted of an uninterupted series of ovations) until it has become unrivaled in popularity. In London her achievements in English Opera were equal to those which distinguished her on the Italian stage, and her numerous musical triumphs in California and in the States during several seasons, and recently her wonderful display of power before 50 000 spectators in the great Coliseum of the National Peace Jubilee, in Boston, have united the entire American press in pronouncing Mdme. PAREPA ROSA the great lyric artist of the age. Her devotions to the highest order of compositions, and her grateful regard for the American public will stimulate her to every possible exertion to establish English Opera a permanent institution in this country.

SOLDIERS' MONUMENT.

TO THE

CITIZENS OF ALLEGHENY CO.:

At a meeting of the Executive Committee of the Allegheny County Monumental Association, held on Tuesday, September 28th, 1869, the following Preamble and Resolutions were unanimous adopted:

WHEREAS, There appears to be a great diversity of opinion existing as to whether the SOLDIERS' MONUMENT should be located in the City of Pittsburgh or in Allegheny City; therefore:

Resolved, That the Building Committee appointed by this Association be, and they are hereby instructed to prepare tickets, and submit the question to a vote of the people of this County, at the ensuing election, on the Second Tuesday of October, the tickets to be—"For the City of Pittsburgh," and "For Allegheny City," a majority of the votes polled to decide the matter.

Resolved, That after the people shall have decided as to whether the Monument shall be located in Pittsburgh or Allegheny City, this Committee shall, as soon thereafter as practicable, designate the spot in the city chosen, whereon the Monument shall be erected.

In carrying out the instructions contained in the above resolutions, we deem it proper to say, that several sites for the Monument have been generously tendered the Association free of charge, by citizens both of Pittsburgh and Allegheny, and there being a great diversity of opinion as to which of the two cities presents the greatest claims and advantages, it has been thought but right, that the question involved should be submitted to the citizens of the County, who are deeply interested in the matter, for their decision, with the hope that it may prove satisfactory.

Tickets are herewith furnished the Election Boards of the various Election Districts of the County, with the request that they make such arrrangements as will secure a free and full expression of the opinion of the citizens of their respective districts, and that the vote be taken and certified in the usual form and returned to the PRESIDENT OF THE BUILDING COMMITTEE at Pittsburgh.

PROPOSALS.

PROPOSALS

Will be received at the Engineer's office of the PITTSBURGH AND CONNELLSVILLE RAILROAD COMPANY in PITTSBURGH or CUMBERLAND, until the 1st of November, 1869, inclusive, for SUPPLYING THE CROSS TIES for the entire line of about 85 miles of this road from near Connellsville to near Cumberland. The length of each cross tie will be 8 feet between square ends. Thickness 7 inches, and flattened on two opposite sides to not less than 7 inches bearing surface, out of wind and clear of bark, which will be shaved off. Kind of timber, White Oak, Rock Oak or Chestnut, sound and free from wind shake or other defects. Places of delivery, immediately on the road, and not more than half a mile apart, where the ground will permit access and room for piling, which will be done in alternate cross layers of about 100 in each pile. Proposers who cannot deliver at the intervals named may state the place at which they would deliver, and quantities at each place. The number per mile will be 2 112, and whole number about 240,000, including those for side tracks. Timber to be cut when the sap is out, and delivery to be commenced on or before January 1st, 1870, and continued until all delivered; as follows, viz: For the first 10 miles from either end of the road near Connellsville or Cumberland, on or before May 1st, 1870, for each succeeding 10 miles toward the middle of the road one month later, or on the 1st of June, July, August and September, 1870, until the whole number are delivered. Monthly estimates of Cross Ties delivered on the road will be given, four-fifths of the contract price of which will be paid, and the remaining fifth at the completion of the contract.

FINANCE AND TRADE.

By Telegraph to the Pittsburgh Gazette.

NEW YORK, October 11, 1869.

Judge Cardozo this morning appointed C. N. Jordan, Cashier of Third National Bank, Receiver of the Gold Exchange Bank, to the place of Augustus L. Brown, resigned. Power was given to the new Receiver to adjust all claims upon or in favor of the Bank, including, of course, the gold business of Friday, September 24th. It is believed the affairs of the bank will be satisfactorily adjusted during the present week. The monetary of Wall street was slightly relieved this afternoon by a rumor on stock exchange that there was a panic in Chicago with a fall in wheat to 90c, and subsequent recovery to 95c. As the public and private telegrams did not mention anything about the panic, it was discredited. The stock exchange is being unfavorably affected by the depression in the grain trade at the West, and the decreased earnings of the western roads was responded to to day by a marked decline in leading shares. At the one o'clock Board the suspension of the stock firm of Fitzhugh and Jenkins was announced. The house was not a large one but had a high reputation.

Money plenty and easy at 4@7c, on call. Loans mostly 5@6 per cent. Discounts dull at 7@12 per cent. Bank discounting only to a moderate extent, and at firm rates, and there is a maintainence of the present ease in money for any length of time, Sterling dull at 9@9½. Gold opened at 130¾ but touched 130⅞, and fell to 130¼, and closed at 130½. Carrying rates 3@5 per cent.

PITTSBURGH MARKETS.

OFFICE OF PITTSBURGH GAZETTE, MONDAY, October 11, 1869.

The advices from Chicago to-day, were not palatable to parties carrying large stocks of grain, and who bought largely some time ago, for future delivery. No. 2 Wheat is quoted down to 96½; last month it sold at $1,35 and even $1,40 for seller October; the seller, according to present indications, will realize a very handsome margin; while, on the other hand, the buyer, will have a very ugly difference to settle, one that will make some of them feel very uncomfortable. Some of the parties who engage in this particular branch of business, "selling short" and "going long," adopt as their policy, "heads I win and tails you lose;" if the markets turn out out in their favor it is all right—but if it goes against them, they fail, or in other words, go up, and this will no doubt be the result in many instances, in the case we have just alluded to. Sixty days ago, the impression was created, nearly all over the country, that the excessive and continued rains had ruined the crops, that the yield would be below an average and that prices were destined to rule higher. How much truth there was in these reports, has been already fully developed, and those who invested their money and credit on the basis of short crops, have ere this discovered their mistake.

ASHES—Steady but unchanged—4@4¼ for Soda, and 9 for Pearls.

APPLES—Quiet and unchanged—sales at $1,50@3,00 per bbl.

THE BOY WHALER: OR
The Young Rovers!
A BOY'S AND GIRL'S VOYAGE.

BY LEON LEWIS.

Author of the "Witch Finder," "Water Wolf," "Boy Magician," "Silver Ship," "Red Knife," etc., etc.

CHAPTER I.

THE YOUNG LOVERS.

Among the many charming homes by which the eastern shores of Long Island had become adorned, a score of years ago, was one which pre-eminently engages our attention. It was situated upon the fairest of the broad inlets which characterize the southern side of Shelter Island, and was occupied by Mr. James Lawrence, a retired merchant prince of New York.

There were but two persons visible about the grounds.

The one was a mere boy, a youth of sixteen or seventeen years, but one whose every look and action, young as he was, gave striking promise of no ordinary manhood.

The companion of our hero was, like himself at the very threshold of actual existence, scarcely turned of fourteen, flushed with the promise of a noble and glorious womanhood.

She was Lily Lawrence, the only child and heiress of the retired merchant. Behind the young couple were the grounds and mansion; before them two small sail-boats, one of them bearing this name—The Water Lily.

"I begin to be tired Richard," at length, murmered the girl. "The boat is now in the shade, as pleasant as can be, rocking softly on the beach. Let us sit down in it."

"Agreed, Lily,', responded the youth.

"We'll have a good talk with each other."!

"Well, what shall we talk about?" demanded the little maiden.

"Let's talk about our future, Lily—what we will do when we grow up," suggested Richard.

"I can't look forward farther than to-night," said Lily, smiling. "Papa and mamma will be home about ten from New York, with loads of presents for you and me, Richard. Let's guess what they will bring us, Dick."

"Well; I guess a new dress for you, Lily, some jewelry—and a lot of puzzles and games."

"I guess a lot of books for you, Dick, and a new set of chessmen, and a splendid gold watch."

The boy's eyes sparkled.

"How good father and mother are to me!" he said, with deep feeling. "They could not treat me better if I were their own son, instead of a waif washed on their beach years ago, before you were born, Lily."

"They love us equally, Dick," said Lily, tenderly. "I hope they won't forget our presents," she added, "and I'm half afraid they will, because they went to New York on mysterious business."

"Mysterious business?" echoed the lad.

Lilly nodded her head sagely.

"Yes," she said. "You know, Richard, I've got a dreadful uncle, an awful bad man that used to make papa lots of trouble?"

"Yes, Lily."

"Well, it's my opinion that my wicked uncle has turned up!" said Lily, solemnly.

"Oh, I hope not, Lily!" Richard exclaimed. "He's a rough, bad man. He used to live with father and do nothing till you were born, expecting to inherit your father's wealth. But, after your birth, he cussed you awfully, and father sent him off, and he went to sea, and father thinks he's now the mate or captain of a vessel."

"Would you like to be a sailor, Dick?"

"No, Lily; I don't love the sea. It cast me on this beach, a forlorn and helpless child, robbing me of all my friends—of even my name," and the lad's bright face clouded over. "I wish I knew my real name, who I am, and if I have any relatives living. Mother says I was expensively dressed when they picked me up, half drowned, and that I wore this chain and locket around my neck," and he drew from his bosom a slender Florentine gold chain, with an exquisite locket, delicately set with pearls in the form of a monogram. "I think my own mother put it on my neck, and I shall always wear it. See, Lily! There are two locks of hair within the locket—a yellow, and a black one, with the names 'Richard and Anna.' I suppose they were the names of my parents."

"Of course!" said Lily, as he restored the trinket to his bosom. "It's a pity they didn't put their full names; but if they had, I shouldn't have had my brother."

"I'm glad I'm not your brother, Lily," said Richard, gravely.

"Glad!" cried Lily, startled—"glad!"

"Yes, I am glad!" reiterated the lad, a soft glow of tenderness suffusing his noble features. "If you were my sister you would leave me sometime, and I want you always with me."

"I'll live with you, Dick"' assented Lily.

"But I should want you for my wife, Lily," urged the lad, with the ardor and tenderness of many an older lover. "Will you marry me dear Lily?"

"Why, of course," said the little maiden, naively. "I expected to marry you, Richard, when I should be old enough."

The lad was enraptured.

He drew Lily to him, showering kisses upon her face and hair, calling her by a host of tender names that came rapidly to his tongue.

"Richard, said Lily, "engaged ladies always wear engagement rings. I ought to have one."

"You shall have a diamond one when I go to New York," hastily promised the young lover. "If you wouldn't mind a plain gold one, Lily, I've got one that's too small for me among my things. Will you wear it till I can get a handsome one?"

Lily graciously assented, and Richard hastened toward the mansion.

When he had gone, the little maiden looked out upon the pleasant bay.

"We ought to live here," she mused. "I am sure this is the prettiest spot in the whole world!"

She watched the ships idly.

One of the ships exhibited a bustle and confusion that showed it was on the point of departure. It was a whaling vessel, as its build and appearance plainly declared.

"She is going for whales," murmured Lily. half unconsciously; "she may be gone two or three years—most of the whale ships are."

She was still gazing at the outward-bound whaler, wrapt in her musings, when a dark and sinister face was thrust out from the shelter of a dense clump of bushes a score of rods east of her, near the water, in the shadow of some cliffs, and a pair of fierce and inflamed eyes regarded her a moment, with an evil and scheming expression.

This wicked-looking face was withdrawn almost immediately into the depths of the bushes, as the sound of the lad's returning footsteps rang out on the graveled path.

"Here it is, Lily," said Richard, bounding over the beach into the boat, and proudly exhibiting the little circlet that was to be the seal of the childish betrothal. "Let me put it on your finger."

"I shall show it to mamma when she comes home," said Lily, "and tell her that we are engaged. See that ship, Dick, starting out on a voyage," she added. pointing at the distant vessel she had been watching. "I wish we had your pocket telescope here, Dick; I should so like to see the people on that whaler."

He bounded away and Lily sank down on the cushions, pillowing her head upon one of them.

CHAPTER II.

A DESPERATE RESOLUTION.

She was tired with her day's sports and wanderings.

It was little wonder, then, that her head had scarcely pressed the cushion when she fell asleep,

Richard was absent full twenty minutes, returning to his sleepiag charge when the shadows of evening were settling permanently around her. His search for his portable telescope had for some time been unsuccessful.

"Here it is, Lily," he said, springing to the side of the boat. "I thought I never should find it, and, now I've got it, it's too late to use it. Why, Lily,' darling, are you asleep?"

He looked down upon the unconscious little maiden, caressed her hair, and covered her tenderly.

"Poor little tired Lily," he whispered, softly. "It would be a pity to wake her up. How fast it has grown dark. I wonder if I couldn't carry her into the house without waking her."

He was about to carry the idea into execution, when he suddenly remembered a softly-cushioned hand-wagon which had been purchased for Lily's use the previous year, after a long illness which had left her too weak to walk.

"I'll get the wagon" he thought, "and draw her to the house without a jolt. She'll awake on the parlor sofa after father and mother come home. What a surprise it will be for her!"

Eager to carry out his design, he hastened in search of the invalid wagon. He was not long absent, returning softly, fearful of disturbing his young charge.

The boat was gone!

Looking wildly around, he caught a glimpse of it, fifty yards away, with its sail flapping, and yet going rapidly seaward. Even while he gazed, the gathering mist and gloom closed in upon the mere point the boat presented to his sight, and it abruptly vanished.

For a moment the lad was stunned with the dreadful truth.

"The boat has floated off the beach!". he exclaimed. "I might have foreseen it' The tide has risen, and the wind with it. The wind is driving her seaward; but I will soon overtake her. Lily, darling, I'm coming!"

He sprang into the remaining boat, pushed off, set the sail, and hurried off in pursuit of the girl, straining his eyes through the darkness to discover some sign of her.

But when he reached the spot where the boat had vanished, and straining his eyes in every direction, saw no sign of the missing boat and girl, he was shaken by a sharp and dreadful apprehension.

"Oh, Lily! my poor little Lily!" he groaned, with an anguish too great for expression, but without pausing in the earnest pursuit. "What does this mean? Where can the boat be? Why does it drift so swiftly? Oh, Lily!"

Keeping his eye fixed in the supposed direction of the Water Lily, he strained every nerve, spread every stitch of sail, in his wild frenzy, and yet he perceived no sign of her.

"Help, help!" he shouted at last, in despair, as his course led him past a group of fishing boats returning homeward from Sag Harbor. "Stop that boat! It got loose from Shelter Island! Help!"

His excited voice immediately commanded attention. Naturally enough, perhaps, the fishermen, instead of seeking the missing boat, drew near to question the pursuer.

In broken words, tremulous with excitement and reviving hope, Richard told his story as briefly as possible.

Before many minutes had passed, the Water Lily was overtaken and stopped.

Richard's boat fairly skimmed over the Sound, his veins throbbing with his exultant joy, his heart brimming over with a mighty thanksgiving.

"Is she asleep yet?" he asked. She was very tired. I will not wake her up."

The fishers looked at each other in silence' Then one of them silently took a lantern and flashed it over the Water Lily.

The boat was empty!

There was a dent in the cushion where Lily's golden head had rested.

But Lily herself was gone!

"Where—where is Lily?" Dick gasped.

One of the fishermen answered:

"She must have waked up dazed like. Most likely she didn't know where she was. P'raps she thought she was getting out of bed. Poor little Lily Lawrence! We all know'd her pretty, sweet face, and we all loved her! I never passed her pa's place thout her wishin' me luck, and 'twas so with the rest. She was an angel, and she's gone home to live, Master Dick, with the rest or the angels!"

"Dead! drowned!" cried the boy, wildly. "Yes, she is dead!"

He stood there, white, tearless and despairing, like a statute of grief.

"Her folks ought to be told," said one of the fisherman, in a low tone.

Slowly and reluctantly he trimmed his sail, and set out upon his errand.

The remaining fishers then strove, in their rude, kindly way, to comfort the stricken lad. But the sound of their voices jarred on his tortured spirit, and he cried:

"I want to be alone. Let me go off by myself! Oh, Lily, Lily!"

The fishers drew off silently and sadly, deeming it best to leave the lad alone with his grief, and soon Richard was solitary amid the shadows upon the water.

"Perhaps I am over Lily's drowned body!" he said, aloud, peering over into the dark waters. "Oh, if I might only join her!"

At length he sat up, and looked with haggard face toward his home.

Lights were gleaming from the windows of the dwelling, and lanterns were flashing across the beach, and over the lawn.

"They are looking for Lily and me," he murmured faintly. "Father and mother have come home. Oh, I can never, never face them again! They took care of me all my life; they have showered continual blessings upon me—and what a return I have made! They left Lily in my charge, and return to find her drowned! They will loathe the sight of me. It was through my carelessness Lily was drowned—Lily for whom I would gladly have laid down my own life! I cannot go back—oh, never, never!"

With sudden eagerness for flight he adjusted his sail, and directed his course toward Sag Harbor, his only idea being to hide himself somewhere where the reproachful glances of Lily's parents might never reach him.

The great lantern of the whaling vessel drew nearer and nearer, as did the lights of Sag Harbor.

As he approached the vessel in the darkness, and marked its signs of immediate departure, a desperate thought entered his mind.

"She is only waiting for some of the stragglers of the crew," he thought. "The wind is right. She'll soon be off. Where can I lose myself to father and mother so completely as on a whaler?"

He approached the vessel as quietly as possible. She was lying to, just without Sag Harbor, heading toward Cedar Island. The night was dark, and only a few men were visible on her deck. The lurid light of the lantern enabled Richard to note all these circumstances sufficiently for his purpose.

He crept under the bow softly, seized the martingale by a desperate leap, and began to climb to the bowsprit, and thence, in the shadow of the jib, creeping down to the deck. He paused when he had gained a secure footing, and removed his shoes, looking around and seeing that his arrival was unnoticed. He then moved softly along the deck to the companion-way, slipped down, and found himself in a dimly-lighted, disagreeably-smelling cabin.

The steward's pantry was off this, and Richard beheld a couple of individuals within it, engaged in imbibing hot liquors. Their backs were toward him, and the boy crept along the shadow, gained an empty state-room, slipped in and concealed himself beneath the bunk.

CHAPTER III.

LILY AND HER CAPTOR.

While our young heroine lay asleep in her boat, upon the beach in front of her father's dwelling, as recorded, the sinister face which had peered upon her from a neighboring cluster of bushes, was again thrust into prominence. Upon this repulsive visage had now appeared an expression akin to villainous contentment.

"It certainly looks so," muttered, in a hoarse voice, the individual to whom that evil-looking face belonged. "The girl's asleep!"

As already stated, the shadows of night had enveloped the scene. Favored by the darkness, the intruder gained the beach unseen, sprang beside the boat, and bent over the sleeping child.

There was light enough for him to mark her features, and an exultant glow lit up his own, as he muttered:

"Asleep, sure enough!"

He chuckled coarsley, pushed off the boat, stepped lightly into it, set the sail, and seated himself in the stern. The wind immediately swelled the canvas, blowing from the west, and the little craft speed out into the gloom now hovering over the water.

"The thing's done," breathed the villin, in a scarcely audible whisper, he looked shoreward and saw no sign of life or motion. "I shall get off with my prize without trouble."

When he had placed what he deemed a safe distance between his unconscious pursuer and himself, he allowed his boat to fall off a little, he peered anxiously around him into the darkness.

"It was about here I ordered the boat to be in waiting," "Ah, there it is yonder! Boys."

His cautious, hissing whisper was answered by a low, irregular whistle,

"This way, boys!" he said, making out the outline of an ordinary whale-boat near at hand, which had been waiting for him.

The villain then lifted Lily very carefully in his arms, and stepped over into the whale-boat, treading upon Lily's hat as he went.

"Now for the ship boys," he whispered. "Let the boat I came in drift where she will. Amay with us--quick!"

The whale boat darted away in obedience to these orders, and the Water Lily was left to be the sport of the winds and the waves, until found by the pursuer.

The little maiden stirred uneasily in the embrace of her enemy, and awakened with a sudden start.

"Is it you Dick?" she asked. "Where are you taking me? Why, it' dark, and we're on the water. Dear Dick, let's go right home! Papa and mama will soon be there!"

"Shut up, you young one!" commanded her enemy, menacingly. "Not a word—not a cry—or I'll chuck you over into the water!"

Lily almost fainted with fright, her eyes looking wildly up at her captor, and her heart almost ceasing its pulsations. Such a shock she had never before experienced.

The whale-boat avoided the fishing-boats upon the sound, steering straight for the whaling vessel which the young couple had remarked, and about which Lily had indulged in so many speculations, and which had so mysteriously delayed its departure.

In a short time the boat was alongside, the captain climbed to the deck with his liget burden, and hastily descended to the cabin.

What a place for a delicately-nurtured, daintily-bred Lily!

There was no one in the cabin, but a hideous black face looked out of the steward's pantry—the face of the cabin cook.

Captain Stocks set down his pale and trembling burden upon a wooden bench that served as a divan, and called loudly to the black cook, who immediately obeyed the summons.

"This is my daughter, Scipio," said the captain, keeping his eyes fixed menacingly upon the little captive. "I told you yesterday that my wife ran away from me years ago, and took the girl with her, robbing me of my rights as a parent. I have taken the law into my own hands, and brought my girl off to keep me company——"

"It isn't so," interrupted Lily, desperately, struggling with her astonishment and grief. "I am not this man's daughter, and I wouldn't be for a million worlds. I am Lily Lawrence, and my father lives on Shelter Island, and I want to go home——"

"You hush up!" cried the captain, with a look that made her shudder with fear. "You understand, Scipio, that you are to keep your eye on this young lady. You are not to let her out of your sight."

"I'll remember, sir," said Scipio, with a grin that showed his double row of ivories.

"And, Scipio, you are not to listen to her prayers and beseechings."

"No, cap'n," said Scipio.

"And if I tell you to fling her overboard, you will do it?"

"Yes, cap'n," said the negro, who had evidently been previously instructed what to say on the present occasion; "if you say so," and he drew a nuge clasp-knife from his pocket and assumed a threatening appearance, "I'll take the young lady's head right off!"

He glared at Lily, as he spoke, moving a step toward her, and the child fairly screamed with fright.

"That is right," said Captain Stocks, satisfied that the desired impression had been made upon his captive. "Go into the pantry, Scipio; I want to talk with the girl alone."

The cook obeyed, closing the door behind him.

The captain stood in front of Lily, looking exultantly upon her.

He was a great, powerful man, with sandy hair and beard, a pair of sinister eyes, and a face that showed a nature given up to evil and wickedness. His brawny hands were rough, the cords being heavily knotted; his neck was thick and short; and his entire appearance was at once formidable and unprepossessing.

No wonder that delicate little Lily shivered and trembled before him, vaguely wondering if it were not all a bad dream, and she would wake from it by-and by.

"Do you know who I am?" asked the captain, after suveying her a little while in silence.

"I know you are a dreadful man," said Lily, with a great sob, not daring to avoid answering.

"Well, who do you suppose I am?"

"I—I suppose you are the very worst man in the world," said poor, frightened little Lily, alarmed at her own temerity.

"You flatter me," replied the captain, with a sinister smile; "but you don't quite get my idea. Let me tell you a little story. Children are fond of stories, I believe.

"Once on a time—to begin in the good old way—there were two half-brothers. The younger was a wild wicked boy," and he sneered. "He didn't like to go to school—that's what they say in the biographies of wicked boys, ain't it? He ran away to sea, and made his father trouble. The elder boy was a good lad, industrious and thoughtful, and studious, and all that"—and again he sneered. "The father of these boys died when the boys got to be young men, and it was found that he had left all his wealth to the good, elder boy, and left the bad, younger son dependent upon the bounty of his brother. Can you understand all that?"

Lily was looking up at him with wild and wondering eyes, her tangle of golden hair pushed back from her white brows, and her pale face all aglow with suppressed excitement. She nodded gravely, and he continued:

"The good brother built him a splendid home on Shelter Island, and married a rich girl, and was very happy"—and the captain's sneer was fearfully bitter. "The wicked brother lived with this good and happy couple a whole year, thinking if they were to die, how rich he would be. But a baby came at the end of a year, and he knew that all that property would go to her, so he ran off and was never heard of by his brother again—never, until the other day, when this bad brother happened to be in New York, and wrote a letter to his rich brother, pretending to be sorry, and desiring to be forgiven. The rich brother and his wife hurried off to bring the prodigal home, and their only child was left unguarded to fall into the wicked man's hands. In short, Miss Lily, your papa went to New York on a wild goose chase, just to give me the opportunity to steal his dearest treasure."

"And you——and you——" gasped Lily, with dilating eyes.

"I am Captain Stocks, of the whaler Dolphin, otherwise Hadley Lawrence, the 'wicked brother,'" said the captain with a mocking bow and a sneering smile.

"Then you must be my bad uncle!" ejaculated Lily, full of horror and surprise. "What do you mean by carrying me off in this manner?"

"I mean," he said, to give you a voyage around the world!"

"I—I don't understand you," said Lily, with a pitiful quiver of her lip.

"No? Then let me explain. My vessel is bound on a three years' voyage. Before my return home, I shall put you in safe custody in some far off quarter of the globe. I shall then come back, search out back files of papers, read the affecting account of the fate of Miss Lily Lawrence, only child of James Lawrence, and then open negotiations with my afflicted relatives. Should my brother and his wife both be dead of griet—and I believe and expect they will be—I shall enter into possession of the property, kick out that nameless, interloping boy—your 'dear Dick'—and settle down into a virtuous, happy existence, keeping you well guarded in your far off prison. Can you understand my programme?"

"Yes, I understand you!" cried Lily indignantly. "I should think you would choke with so many wicked words."

He opened a door beside Lily, and exhibited the small state-room. A large new trunk stood against the wall, the key in the lock. The captain lifted the lid displaying its contents.

"Why, those are my own things!" cried Lily in astonishment, recognizing in the miscellaneous heap, dresses, underclothing, shoes, and hats she had worn. "How did they come here?"

"I got them out of your house this morning, when you were in the garden, and the servants were off by themselves."

"But I am not going off with you!" exclaimed Lily. "I am going ashore to papa, mamma, and Dick."

She sprang up, darting toward the door of the cabin, with a wild hope of escape.

Before she could reach the companion-way, the captain's broad strides had brought him beside her, and his heavy hand was laid on her shoulder.

"None o' that!" he said, with an ugly look. "I've got to go ashore again on business before we sail, and I can't waste more time here. No use in your trying to escape. Scipio has got his eyes on you."

He thrust her into the dark state-room. locked the door, putting the key in his pocket, and ordering the negro to keep a close guard over the captive,

He then went about his business,

The child thoroughly exhausted herself with the vehemence of her emotions and exertions to escape, calling wildly on her parents for rescue, but at last she dropped into her berth, moaning and sobbing faintly:

"Oh, Dick, dear Dick, come to me! Come and save your poor Lily!"

The poor little captive had no suspicion of Richard's presence, and yet, by a merciful Providence, the desperate resolution of our young hero had carried him aboard of that very vessel!

CHAPTER IV.

LIGHT IN DARKNESS.

How lonely and desolate he was! No word can describe his sadness.

For a long time he lay there, thinking of his lost Lily, of her parents despair and wretchedness, and of his hopeless, darkened life. The ship sailed across Gardiner's bay, passed outside of Gardiner's Island, and struck the swell of the Atlantic. What a voyage—what a life—was before him!

"We are fairly out to sea," he said, at last, as the rolling and pitching of the vessel declared the fact. "I must own up soon. I wonder what the captain will say when he sees me!

He wiped away his tears manfully, repulsed the feeling of desolation that came over him, and began slowly to emerge from his concealment.

As might have been expected from the life he and Lily had led, spending half their time on the water, neither of them felt the slightest inclination to sea-sickness. But to both the peculiar greasy odor pervading the vessel was almost intolerable, and Richard began to long for the fresh air of the decks.

He crept across the state room, and placing himself noiselessly in the stairway, peered into the dingy cabin.

The door of the steward's pantry was open, and the steward—a negro named Tawkins—was engaged in entertaining Scipio with a tempting beverage, receiving in return all the news at Scipio's command.

"So the captain has brought his daughter aboard, has he," said Tawkins. "I jest wish I could see her. Does she look like the captain?"

"About as much as a lamb looks like a tiger,' said Scipio, with a grin. "Why, she's a tinty-touty thing, with hair the color o' sunshine, and eyes like bits o' deep blue sky. She's going to make a voyage with us!"

"It's bad luck to have a woman aboard," said Tawkins, reflectively. "I knew of a ship once, where the captain's wife was aboard, and the ship was lost, and every soul drowned. It's a temptin' o' Providence to take women to sea!"

"It'd be worse luck to go against the captain's will!" declared Scipio. "Why he can rage worse than the wind can, and the weight of his arm is somethin' awful. Last v'yage, you know, he liked to killed one of the sailors, and that very feller is in the New York 'ospitle now with a generally used-up body. Can't walk, nor talk, nor nothin'—so I hear. The captain is awful!"

Richard began to think he might better have remained ashore.

"Is the captain's bed made, Tawkins?" asked Scipio, after a pause.

The steward replied in the negative.

"I'll make it then," said Scipio, "and you can help. Where are the blankets and sheets?"

Richard, anticipating the reply, closed the door and concealed himself behind the further pile of blankets.

A moment later, the two negroes entered the state-room, and commenced leisurely selecting the required stores.

"What did you say the young lady's name is, Scipio?" inquired Tawkins, holding a lantern, while his friend tumbled over the piles of blankets.

"I didn't say, but it's Lily. The captain found her on Shelter Island."

"What a great leap Richard's heart gave. He started so violently as almost to betray himself, and it was with difficulty he could prevent himself from uttering a shout.

A conviction of the glorious truth flashed across his soul with the quickness of lightning.

Lily was living—was on board this very vessel.

While his mind was in a maze of blissful rapture the two men passed out, and he was left to himself.

His first impulse was to fling himself at full length and sob like a child. His joy and thanksgiving found vent in a shower of tears, which seemed to relieve alike the pressure on heart and brain.

Notwithstanding that the girl had been spoken of as the captnin's daughter, he believed her to be his own lost Lily. As his brain grew clearer, his mind grew busy with speculations, and he soon arrived at an idea somewhere near the truth.

"Lily's uncle is a sailor, and what sailor beside him could want to carry her off? He is going to take her far away, and maybe he means to kill father and mother, and inherit all the Lawrence property. Poor little Lily! My heart aches to comfort her. The key is inside her door. I must go to her!"

He again arose and peered out into the cabin. The door of the captain's state-room was open and the two negroes were busy making up the berth.

He could not move yet to Lily's assistance. He must wait—he must have patience.

While he stood there, his face paling and flushing, his heart sinking and swelling with despondency and hope, the captain and mate came down the companion-way and sat down at the cabin table, calling for sundry drinks, which Tawkins hastened to prepare.

The two men talked over their wine a full hour, telling what they should do in case their present whaling expedition proved successful, and drinking repeatedly to the desired success.

It seemed to Richard as if they never would separate.

He crouched behind the closed door, waiting for their departure, and trembling so that he could scarcely stand.

"I shall be a rich man one of these days, Bill," said the captain, at last, when the mate arose. "I might be now if 'twan't for two young uns—my girl in there and a boy that's nothing to nobody, a refuse of the waves, but who may stand between me and a handsome property. One of these days, Bill, when you are captain instead of mate of the old Dolphin, I may get you to dispose of my fine young gentleman for me. By George! I'd give a pretty sum to see that lad in your hands!"

The mate laughed, and said that he should be glad to see the same, for a favor done to Captain Stocks was sure of reward. He then went upon deck, leaving the commander to himself.

Richard instinctively understood the "fine young gentleman" referred to to be himself. His suspicions that the captain was the brother of his foster-father and benefactor had received confirmation.

It was another full hour before the captain retired. He talked to Scipio, enjoining on him a ceaseless vigilance toward the captive, promising him tempting rewards for faithfulness. He listened at Lily's door to assure himself that she slept, and finally he withdrew into his state-room, closed his door, and his loud breathing soon attested his somnolence.

Scipo flung himself on the bench that served as a cabin divan, and tossed and rolled about sleeplessly, a full half hour more.

But at length he, too, slept.

Then Richard, who had remained sleepless and vigilant, again opened the door and looked out—with what breathlessness, with what subdued excitement, can be well imagined.

The negro was snoring, with his face to the wall. Beside him, there was no one in the cabin. The smoky lamp burned dimly, and the sound of steady tramping came from the deck, where members of the watch were walking and talking together.

Breathless with excitement, Richard stole out into the cabin, closing his state-room door behind him. The time had come for action.

Creeping noiselessly along the wall, his restless gaze divided between the negro, the companionway, and the captain's door, he stole to the entrance of Lily's apartment.

How he trembled as he turned the handle, pressing upon it!

It yielded to his touch—the door was not locked.

He softly glided in!

Closing the door behind him, he softly locked it, finding the key in its place.

Then he crept up to the berth and looked in, as well as the darkness permitted.

Yes, there was his Lily—his lost Lily—faint and pale as one dead, her golden hair streaming over her pillow, her long, curling lashes on her cheeks, vailing the sweet, shut eyes, and her breath faintly coming and going between her parted lips.

Weary, strengthless and despairing, she lay there like a broken flower.

How Richard's heart swelled with joy and rapture, as he looked on the lovely face he had thought lying under the restless waves! What a mighty yearning filled his soul at sight of her living, breathing form!

"Lily!" he whispered softly, taking her lifeless hand in his own.

The eyelashes stirred a little, and the hand quivered a little in his grasp.

"Lily!" he whispered again, with a solemn, ineffable tenderness. "Lily, darling—it is Dick!"

"The words seemed to galvanize the little creature into new life. She opened wide her wandering eyes, looked at him wilkly—then a sudden comprehension of her great joy rushed over her, and she buried her face in his bosom, weeping out her thanksgiving.

She made no outcry—she uttered no scream—such rapture as hers finds expression best in silent tears.

Richard folded her close to his loving heart, and shed upon her bright head tears like hers—solemn, joyful tears!

CITY AND SUBURBAN.

THE GAZETTE is furnished in the city for six days of the week for 15 cents per week; by mail, $8 per annum: 3 mos., $2.

The place of holding the election in the Fifth ward, Allegheny, having inadvertently been printed in the election proclamation of the Sheriff of Allegheny county to meet at the school-house on Page street, in said ward, and as the place of holding the election has not been changed by any act of the Council of the said city of Allegheny, the qualified electors of the Fifth ward, city of Allegheny, will meet on Tuesday, Oct. 12, 1869, at the school-house on the corner of Chartiers and Fayette streets, in said ward.

SAMUEL B. CLULEY, Sheriff.

Our Readers in Allegheny, on the west side of Federal street, who do not get their paper before seven o'clock in the morning, will do us a favor by leaving word to that effect in our counting room. The tardiness on the part of the carrier is wholly inexcusable as we print and deliver the papers to him in ample time to enable all to be circulated before seven o'clock.

Send in the Result!

Will our friends throughout the two cities oblige us by sending in the returns of the ward elections as soon as possible after being counted, as we propose publishing the result in full in Wednesday's GAZETTE? We would also respectfully request the borough and township officers to fill up the blanks furnished them at once and forward by mail or hand to our counting room, 86 Fifth avenue,

The Voting Places To-day.

The polls, in all the precincts of the cities and boroughs of Allegheny county, for the election of to-day, are located as follows:

Pittsburgh—1st, 2nd, 4th, 6th, 7th, 9th, 11th, 12th, 13th, 14th, 15th, 17th, 18th, and 19th Wards at their respective Public School House. In the other Wards:

Third—Corner Sixth avenue and Smithfield street.

Fifth—Orphan's Court Clerk's Office.

Eighth—Corner Franklin and Fulton streets.

Tenth—Lamb Tavern.

Sixteenth—Dugan's Feed Store, Allen street.

Twentieth—House of Geo. Rahauser.

Twenty-First—Wigwam.

Twenty-Second—Irwin School House.

Twenty Third—Hazelwood.

Allegheny—First, Second, Third. (1st precinct,) Fourth, (1st precinct,) Fifth, Sixth and Eighth wards at their respective Public School Houses. In the others

Third ward, Second precinct, house of Geo. Gerst.

Fourth ward, Second precinct, house of Mrs. Gordon.

Seventh ward, house of D. Lutz.

The electors of Birmingham (Second precinct) meet at the Burgess' office; of McKeesport, at the Town Hall; of Bellevue, at the store of H. Williams; of Union, at Smith's Stone Tavern; of all the other borough precincts, at their respective Public School Houses.

Thirteen prisoners were taken over to the Work House yesterday afternoon.

For Sale.—A fine family horse. Enquire at 116 Market street.

Where it Will be Seen.—By voting to place the Monument in Allegheny you vote to place it where it can be seen. *

Vote for the Allegheny City Location.—The entire press of the city, and everybody else concedes that Allegheny City offers the best location. *

Omission.—In our list of municipal candidates, yesterday, we inadvertently omitted the name of Reuben J. Leonard from the Sixth Ward Republican Council ticket.

Another Seizure.—Officer McCready, of the Revenue Department, yesterday seized five barrels of whisky in this city on account of some irregularity in branding.

The Soldiers' Monument should be located on a spot where the surrounding improvements would be in keeping with the Monument itself. Does any location in Pittsburgh suggest such a state of facts. *

Released on Bail.—Nicholas and Stephen Hoffman committed to jail on a charge of felonious assault and battery, and held to await the result of injuries inflicted on Laughran, were admitted to bail in the sum of $12,000 each.

Threatenings.—Wm. Keason alleged before Alderman McMasters, yesterday, that from the fierce threatenings of Jas. Chantler, he is in great fear that James will do him or his family some bodily harm. The parties are neighbors. Warrant issued.

Fight in the Mill.—Mr. J. McCarty and Benjamin McClarkey, employed in the Fort Pitt Works, got into a fight yesterday afternoon, which resulted in an information befare Alderman Butler, McCarty being prosecutor, upon which a warrant was issued.

Sunday Liquor Law.—Chief Hague made information before the Mayor yesterday charging George Rowe, Pat Bradley, Mrs. Fleming and Dan McWilliams with selling liquor on Sunday. The actions were brought to recover the penalty and summons were issued.

Abusing a Horse.—Lorenz Kocher made information before Justice Ammon, yesterday, charging Nicholas Neib with misdemeanor under the livery stable act. The accused was arrested and taken to the justice's office, where the case was settled.

Soldiers!—If you would have the shaft intended to commemorate the heroism of your fallen comrades buried in the cemetery, vote for Pittsburgh. If you would have it located where it can be seen and approached without tickets, vote for the city of Allegheny. *

Struck Him.—Howell Williams and Louis Jones are on bad terms, which is illustrated by the allegations made before Alderman McMasters, yesterday, by Williams, to the effect that Jones had knocked him down and struck him several times. Jones will be arrested as soon as found.

Seminary Hill.—It is not generally known that Seminary Hill, in the general plan of the Park Improvement, is regarded as the key of the whole. It is proposed to construct on its summit a vast concourse for carriages, which will be reached by a metropolitan drive. The Soldiers' Monument at that point would complete the picture. *

Assaulted.—Jas. Keefer made information before Alderman Strain yesterday against George Ross, Frank Jones and John Lelley for assault. The prosecutor alleges that the defendants attacked him on Carson street, South Pittsburgh, Saturday night about ten o'clock knocking him down and beating him in a cruel manner. Warrents issued.

Trinity Church Festival.—The ladies of Trinity Church, Sixth avenue, will hold a Festival in the new chapel, on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday of the present week. Lunch served each day from 12 M. to 2 P. M., and supper from 7 to 9 P. M. Sale of useful and fancy articles every day and evening, beginning at noon on Tuesday, the 12th inst., and continuing till Thursday night.

To Heads of Families—Under the head of Fresh Canned Goods on our fifth page to-day you will find the card of the time honored and well known grocery store of John A. Renshaw, corner of Liberty and Hand streets. It is unnecessary for us to say anything in behalf of this house as it is a well known fact they sell just what they advertise to do and persons buying can rely on their goods being what they are represented.

Local Jealousies should not influence any voter in deciding in his own mind where the Monument should be located. Vote for the place best adapted for such a memorial, and Allegheny will be selected.

Assault and Battery.—Jacob Schwartz made information before Justice Ammon, yesterday, charging Peter Rectowald with assault and battery. The accused was arrested and taken to his office, where the case was compounded.

Peter Rectowald also made information against Nicholas, his brother, for surety of the peace. The case was settled.

Teasing Him.—Conrad Zeditz has been teasing Adam Teasing by striking him with his fist, and manifesting other playful evidences of humorous feeling. So says Teasing, upon whose information Alderman McMasters yesterday issued a warrant for the arrest of the teaser.

Teasing, it is alleged, further manifested a teasing dispositon by conducting himself in an ungracious manner toward Charles Kramer, who also caused the Alderman to issue a warrant for his arrest.

Decide in favor of Allegheny as the location for the Monument. *

Eleventh Ward Nominations.

The Republican straight ticket in the Eleventh ward is highly creditable to the good sense and judgment of the voters, and should receive the hearty support of citizens of all shades of opinion in politics. For Select Council, Mr. Charles Kehew has been renominated, which was a fitting and merited compliment to an able, faithful and energetic representative, who is throroughly acquainted with all the affairs of the municipal Government, and the interests of his constituencies. He should by all means be returned to his seat in a body in which he is so well respected. Messrs. Morehead and McCandless for Common Council are equally deserving of hearty endorsement. There are no more able, faithful or honest members than they in the lower branch of the city assembly, and we trust they will be re-elected by an almost unanimous vote. Mr. Oliver will be a new member. He is universally respected and we bespeak for him that full measure of confidence he so well deserves at the hands of his fellow citizens. The remainder of the ticket is made up of good and true men, and we look for it to receive a rousing majority.

Overturned.

Friday night John Sutton, a resident of the Eighth ward, Allegheny, while driving along the road near his residence, in a buggy, accidently missed the road, and drove over a high embankment. The vehicle was overturned, and Sutton thrown out on the track of the Pennsylvania Railroad. Miracously, as it seems, he escaped serious injury and was enabled to walk home, in a short time. The vehicle was damaged slightly, but the horse escaped unhurt.

The Point Park is only "talked" of. Thousands of dollars would be required to make that locality suitable for the Monument. *

A DOUBLE HOMICIDE.

An Old Lady and Her Grand Child Run Over by a Wagon and Instantly Killed—The Driver of the Wagon in Custody.

About ten o'clock yesterday morning an accident occurred on Fifth avenue, near Magee street, which resulted in the almost instant deaths of Annie Moore, a lady about fifty-five years of age, and her infant grand-child, age eighteen months. Mrs. Moore, who resided with her daughter, Mrs. Johnson, on Mulberry alley, in the Ninth ward, started with the child in her arms to visit a friend on Chestnut street, and when crossing the avenue at the place named, was knocked down and run over by a brewer's wagon, killing her and the child almost instantly. The bodies were taken up and carried into Mr. Noland's drug store, at the corner of the avenue and Elm street, by direction of Dr. T. A. Rex. Mrs. Moore it appears was first knocked down by the horse, which tramped upon her head and the wheels of the wagon passed over her, crushing in the frontal bone, causing instant death. The child received a cut on both cheeks and a bruise on the left temple, caused by the wheel passing over it, and was not dead when picked up, but expired in a few moments afterwards.

The wagon was owned by Mr. Hyde, brewer at Troy Hill, and Gerhart Johnson, a German, was driving. According to his statement, he had a young horse in the team, which was hard to manage, and when he first discovered the woman on the track in front of him the wagon was not more than thirty or forty feet from her. He called to her to get out of the way and attempted to stop his horses, but fearing he could not check them or gain the attention of the old lady, who was standing in the middle of the track upon which his wagon was running, looking in the opposite direction, he endeavored to pull out of the track, but could not do so. One of the horses, he says, struck the woman, knocking her down, and both wheels of the wagon passed over her.

The Coroner was notified of the affair and arrived at the place where the bodies lay about twelve o'clock, and after a jury was empannelled and sworn the investigation was postponed until Wednesday.

Officer Rehren made information before Alderman Thomas, charging the driver, whose name at that time was unknown, with manslaughter, and immediately started in pursuit of him with a warrant for his arrest. He found him hid in a hay pile on Mr. Hyde's premises, and started to bring him to the Alderman's office, and at the request of the prisoner, accompanied him to his (prisoner's) house to allow him to change his clothes. While there two of the Mayor's police, who had also been sent in search of Johnson, came in and arrested him. Officer Rehren informed them that he had Johnson in charge and that he was an officer, but refused to to show his warrant, whereupon the Mayor's police took the prisoner and conveyed him to the lock-up. A note from Alderman Thomas to the Mayor, stating that information had been made before him was all that was required to settle the difficulty.

Western Union Telegraph Company.

We recently called public attention to the re-organization and reduction of the tariffs of this Company, the result of two years of ingenious and persistent labor.

We have now before us the annual report of Honorable Wm. Orton, President of the Company, which makes a pamphlet of forty-eight pages. This report evinces at once the intellectual and the executive abilities for which its author is distinguished. It is a model of conciseness and yet completeness of detail, and shows that Mr. Orton's administration of the most extensive system of telegraphing on the globe, has been marked by great energy, perspicuity and success.

The report is appropriately divided into various parts, each part under its proper head; for instance, the first part is a succinct historical sketch of Telegraphy in this country from its beginning in 1844 to the organization of the Western Union Company in April, 1851. Then follows an outline history of the organization of the Western Union Company, its first lines, its numerous extensions and its consolidations with or absorption of many lesser and rival lines, down to that of the Chicago and Mississippi Company in 1869, whereby "a complete unification of nearly all the lines in the United States" has been achieved, rendering the system the most extensive and efficient in the world.

These sketches are followed by chapters on

"The extent of the Western Union Lines."

"Reorganization of the System,"

"Detailed Statement of Lines constructed from January 1868, to July 1869."

"Detailed Statement of Lines reconstructed within the same dates."

"Stations, Lines and Machinery belonging to the Company."

"Real Estate owned by the Company,"

"Kinds of Apparatus in use."

"The Company's Manufactories."

"Managen ent of the Lines."

"Financial Statistics of the Company."

"The Bonded Debt."

"The Sinking Fund Account."

"The Income and Expenses for three years ending July 1st, 1869."

"Dispursement of net profits."

"Reorganization of Tariffs."

"Relations with the Press."

"The value of the Co.'s property."

"Extent of rival organizations."

"Present condition of Rival Lines."

"Fast methods of Telegraphy."

"Government interference in Telegraphing."

"Statistics of the Telegraph in Europe and America for the year 1866."

"Average cost of Telegrams in Europe and America."

"The policy of the Company."

"The policy of the future."

Under these and other headings Mr. Orton has furnished an able and lucid exposition of the business of the gigantic corporation, over which he presides with eminent distinction. A corporation whose capital exceeds forty millions and whose operations ramify all sections of our country and through its connections, reaches every recess of the commercial world almost as universal as the subtle and mysterious fluid which it has made subservient to the behests of man, transmitting his messages over more than fifty thousand miles of American, and as many miles of European lines, with the rapidity of thought.

The report is well worth the perusal of every professional and busines man in the country. Much, indeed, will be found in it of which no one engaged in the world's activities should be ignorant; and every American who reads it will feel an emotion of pride that an institution so vast and in its operations so beneficent had both its origin and highest development in his own country.

The President of the Ladies' Monumental Association denies that the Cemetery site has been withdrawn. Voters should settle the question by locating the Monument in Allegheny. *

Seminary Hill can be seen from all parts of the city. It is just the place to put the monument. *

Weather.

The month of October, so perfectly adapted to the human system and the temporal interests of man, is the most delightful and interesting of any month of the year. It combines the heat of summer, the temperature of the fall, seasoned with a slight winter chill. The system being free from the influence of stiffening cold and collapsing heat, enjoys a free elasticity of the spirits and a bracing of the nervous system. The month is disposed to dryness. It is the close of the productive season, and is a kind provision of nature to enable the husbandman to take in the fruits of his labors. The season this year, for health and production, has been all that could be desired, and far beyond or deserts; for if we deserve nothing we should be contented with anything. The earlier parts of the season, being cool, generated a large amount of falling waters, prepared the soil for an exuberant production, and preserved the atmosphere from deleterious substances. We are never satisfied with, or grateful for Nature's bounties: we wish to realize our imaginary wants and foolish anticipations. Our desire is that Providence and the world should be ready to suit our selfishness. The source of our unhappiness is our imaginary wants, and not our actual needs. If the first were granted, we would be more miserable and discontented. A farmer complains that the crop of such an article will be poor, because it is too cold, too hot or too dry, so that your unwillingness to pay for more than the intrinsic value may be removed. Such remarks as these betray a murmuring discontent; they are slanderous to a good Providence; they manifest a spirit that would even call Nature to account.

The floods in the west have destroyed the wheat crop. The potatoes, although abundant, will all rot. The corn, for want of heat, will not ripen. The fruit abundant is falling off and rotting. The price of all productions, to-morrow, will be higher, and deprivation and starvation will be the result. Such subterfuges are below the use of a wise man. The weather is too hot, cold, wet, dry or windy, and just what it ought not to be. The farmers and boatmen want rain to start the crops and raise the rivers; the builder, fair weather to finish his edifice, the man who has his house unroofed for repairs, and the farmer till he gets his grain in, and the citizen to end his summer jaunts, want the rain to keep off. The miller and boatman want the storm to raise the streams. We want to get all we can and give less. Nature has the most perfect system to make her dividends according to the stock, in the most perfect equity. Yet all are not satisfied. Communities, when there is a fear of a drought, flood or wet time, have set days for prayer to the Deity for rain or dry weather. One class in one section will kneel to petition for rain here, another will meet to petition to stay the floods, as if the Creator would alter his course and throw all into choas to gratify their selfish carnal desires. Call upon Him in the storm, forget Him in the sunshine, make Him a half-way house in a time of storm, or a servant waiting for your beds while you are not grateful for the least mercy, how futile. Hearken unto wisdom. "Be content with such things as you have and rejoice always." Providence, by nature's laws has no special favorites, but her care and benevolence extend over all, even to the animalcula, all receive an equitable dividend. Droughts, floods, heat, cold, winds, hurricanes, tornadoes, are all equally needed in nature's machinery; you are either willingly or unwillingly working for your neghbors good. You are now suffering for him, and he for you. You are to suffer, and be disappointed for his good, and he for you; we all have our dividends, in gains or losses. All is for general, and it is with us to make it for individual good or evil. A man's mind is ever in advance of his condition; wisdom teaches us to bring our minds to our condition. "In the morning sow thy seed, and in the evening withhold not thy hand, for thou knowest not which shall prosper, this or that." No real good is found by seeking for it as an object; but is found only by being fitted, educated and led to it by an external power, either grace or laws. Record from September 6th to October 5th, cloudy and variable, fifteen; rain, twelve; sunshine, fourteen; frosts, three. Average daily thermometer 64. River 5½ feet. Rain fall 5 80-100 inches

INDICATIONS.

Not clear, but supposed will be; from October 5th to November 4th, eighteen cloudy days, of which twelve will be rainy and twelve of sunshine. A pleasant month, not marked with unusual heat or cold, with a fair amount of rain. The spring, summer and fall having been so regular and in natural order, it is presumed the winter will be severe.

Oct. 11, 1869. G. A.

Friendship's Offering.

Presentation ceremonies are always pleasant to record, and it is with great pleasure that we refer to one which came off in Allegheny last evening. A short time since Mr. James H. Milne, the gentlemanly and efficient Third Auditor of the Union Line, Pennsylvania Railroad, led to the nymeneal altar, one of Allegheny's fairest and most accomplished daughters. The happy couple, after a pleasant tour in the East, settled in their new home a few days since, where, last evening, a select company of their friends assembled to celebrate the event by the presentation of a silver service as a contribution to the furnishment of the new household.

The service was of the finest workmanship, each piece being appropriately inscribed, and as a substantial evidence of the esteem with which the young couple are regarded, was highly complimentary. The gift was tendered in behalf of the donors by Mr. W. B. Horner and received by Mr. Milne, who though completely surprised, was enabled to return his thanks in a neat and felicitous manner. The remainder of the evening was spent in social chat and intercourse, and was made the occasion of a happy re-union of friends, which will be remembered by all with feelings of the liveliest pleasure.

The Soldier's Monument.

The location of the Soldiers Monument will be decided to-day, and every citizen should express his opinion on the matter. The only offer which has been made that is worthy of consideration is that of the Allegheny Park Commission. They agree to furnish the site free of cost, to lay the foundation, and to gaurantee at least FIVE THOUSAND DOLLARS in the way of contribution to the fund of the Association, and to maintain it for all time to come. If Pittsburgh is decided upon, a site must be purchased, and this will involve the expenditure of three times the amount now in the hands of the Association. Every citizen who desires to see the tribute to our worthy dead a creditable one, should vote for the ALLEGHENY LOCATION. *

Marvin's Crackers have no superior in the market. Special care is taken in their manufacture, and as a consequence, the best article is produced. They should be on hand in every house, as no table is complete without such articles.

Amusements.

OPERA HOUSE.—There was a large and fashionable audience at the Opera House last evening to hear Mr. Proctor play his opening engagement. "Nick of the Woods" was presented and rendered in a highly satisfactory manner. To-night "Ambition" will be presented, when a full house may be anticipated. Monday evening next the Richings Opera Troupe commence an engagement of six nights at the Opera House, and those desiring to hear this excellent English Opera Troupe should secure their seats early.

PAREPA-ROSA.—Our readers should not fail to hear the Parepa-Rosa Opera Troupe at the Academy next week. The engagement will open Monday evening with "Martha." Tuesday night the new opera of the "Puritan's Daughter" will be produced. Wednesday evening Miss Rose Hersee makes her debut in "The Bohemian Girl," and Thursday evening the new opera of the "Black Domino" will be presented. Friday night Parepa-Rosa takes a benefit, on which occasion "Maritana" will be presented, and the season closes Saturday night with "Il Travatore." Season tickets for the six nights will be sold at $7.50, Wednesday from 9 A.M. till 2 M., and the sale of single tickets or for two or more nights will take place after 12 o'clock of same day, at Kleber's Music Store, Wood street.

PITTSBURGH THEATRE.—The audience at the Pittsburgh Theatre continues to increase and the entertainments are increasing in interest. There are so many stars in the company that we will not particularize any of them, but allow the patrons of the Establishment to judge of their merits.

ACADEMY OF MUSIC.—The Minstrels at the Academy of Music, Wednesday evening next and the remaining nights of the week, will doubtless do a good busines, as the troupe is an excelent one and Minstrels are always well patronized in this city.

Pittsburgh is too deeply in debt to spend money to purchase a Monumental site. One can be procured free in Allegheny. The Commissioners' offer is equivalent to over ten thousand dollars, exclusive of the site. *

Oil Productions.

The following from the Titusville Herald, shows the production during September: The average per day of the production previously reported in 1869, and the average per day since January 1st, and the product from January 1st to October 1st, last year, and the average per day for the same time. Total shipment of crude, for September, of barrels of forty-five gallons each, 401,148; add 17,833 barrels of forty-three gallons each; total shipment of barrels of forty-three gallons each, 419,081; stock on hand September 1st, 332,199; stock on hand October 1st, 292,419; deduct, decrease October 1st, 39,710; total production during September, 379,371; average per day, thirty days, 12,645; production previously reported, 2,632,861; total production since January 1st, 3,012,232; average per day for two hundred and seventy-three days, 11,033; total production same time last year, 2,747,371; average per day same time last year, two hundred and seventy-four days 10,026; average per day during September last year, 11,486. The number of wells in process of drilling on October 1st were three hundred and thirty-one, or sixteen more than the number on September 1st, but twenty-nine less than the number on October 1st of last year.

Sudden Death—Coroner's Inquest.

Coroner Clawson was yesterday summonsed to hold an inquest on the body of Thomas Thomas, a watchman who died suddenly in "Bedford Hall," a drinking saloon on Carson street, Birmingham. It appears that Thomas was a man of intemperate habits, and for a few days previous to his death had been drinking to excess. Yesterday morning he went into the saloon intoxicated and called for a glass of ale. After drinking the ale he sat down on a chair, and in a few moments afterwards was thought to be asleep, whereupon he was removed to a back room adjoining the bar-room. Subsequently the proprietor of the saloon came in and finding the man, as he supposed, asleep, attempted to wake him, when he discovered that he was dead. A physican was summened immediately, but too late to be of any service, as life was entirley extinct before he arrived. He testified at the inquest that in his opinion the man died from the congestion of the brain, and the jury so rendered their verdict. Deceased was a single man about thirty-five years of age.

A Premature Announcement.

The semi-official announcement that the Trustees of the Cemetery had withdrawn their offer of a site for the Soldiers' Monument is not true. The offer is still open, and the probability is that if Pittsburgh is selected the Monument will be located there, notwithstanding the opinions expressed against it. The Point Park is a myth, and the purchase of property suitable for a site would absorb three times the amount now in the hands of the Association. There are but two courses open: either to fall back on taxation or to locate the Monument in the Cemetery. The Allegheny location obviates both of these, and every citizen should vote to place it on Seminary Hill, a natural location, or in some other part of the beautiful Common grounds. *

An Interesting Paper.

Few papers published in this or any other country can compare in excellence and interest with the New York Weekly. The serial stories published in its columns are written by the best American and English authors, the fun is furnished by Josh Billings and Doesticks, the short stories, sketches and departments are always readable, and the illustrations are invariably fine specimens of art. The present is a good time to subscribe for the New York Weekly, as by reference to the advertisement in another column it will be seen that "The Boy Whale; or, The Young Rovers," by Leon Lewis has just been commenced in its columns.

Republican Ticket.

The following is the Republican ticket in the borough of East Birmingham.
